19,246 WILL BE ELIGIBLE TO VOTE TUESDAY

2,125 Register and Transfer at Election Board Since August Primary.

HIGHEST IN CITY HISTORY

100 Absent Ballots Cast to Date With Deadline Set for Saturday Night.

A record number of voters—19,246—will be eligible to cast their ballots in the special school bond election in Mansfield next Tuesday, board of election figures showed today.

A city-wide drive conducted by the Mansfield P. T. A organizations in behalf of the school bond issue was credited with the majority of the 2,125 registrations and transfers handled by the election board since the Aug. 9 primary.

The total registration, highest in the city's history, shows an increase of 304 over last year's figures, the previous high.

Most of the new registrations and transfers were received in the past two weeks when P. T. A. representatives visited Mansfield homes and distributed transfer cards

It was believed the large number of registrations would result in a sizable vote at the special election when the city will be asked to approve a $550,000 bond issue as a part of a proposed $1,000,000 school building program.

Absentees Vote.

While extra clerks at the board of elections office filed the new registrations today in preparation for Tuesday's election, voters who will be absent from the city next week cast their ballots at the elections office in the courthouse.

About 100 absent voters ballots had been received today, an unusually large number for a special election, board of election officials said. The deadline for voting absent ballots is midnight Saturday.

If it receives the necessary 65 per cent majority next Tuesday, the bond issue will provide the city's share of the building program, with the remainder to come from a $450,000 PWA grant already allocated.

The present John Simpson junior high school would be replaced with a new building on the same location and another junior high school would be built on a property purchased by the school board at Cline avenue and Wood street.

The Cline avenue property, which includes 10 acres, was bought for $10,000. Board members pointed out that the property is in a desirable residential district and will provide ample space for a playground and athletic field at the school.

In addition to the new buildings, the program calls for a shop addition at Senior high school and improvements to all other buildings in the city except the Woodland and Western Avenue schools.

The building program had received the approval today of the Mansfield Board of Property and Liability Underwriters, an organization of insurance agents, W. L Miller, superintendent of schools said

Pupils Show How They Feel About New Schools—93 Per Cent Vote for Bonds

STUDENTS at John Simpson and Hedges Junior high schools went to the polls yesterday—and gave an overwhelming victory to the school bond issue.

It was a straw vote—arranged as a surprise.

And the outcome gave a pretty good idea of just how badly some 1,700 youngsters want new school buildings.

At Hedges, 298 votes were cast.

The result was:

FOR the bond issue, 254.

AGAINST the bond issue, 35.

At John Simpson, 1,391 votes were cast.

The result was:

FOR the bond issue, 1,311.

AGAINST the bond issue, 80.

At Hedges the victory for the school bonds was scored by a margin of 87.8 per cent At John Simpson, the margin was even larger, 94.2 per cent.

The grand total was: FOR, 1,565; AGAINST, 115. The percentage of victory on the total vote at both schools was 93 per cent.

The straw vote was taken yesterday afternoon at Hedges, and in both the morning and afternoon at John Simpson, where double sessions are being held.

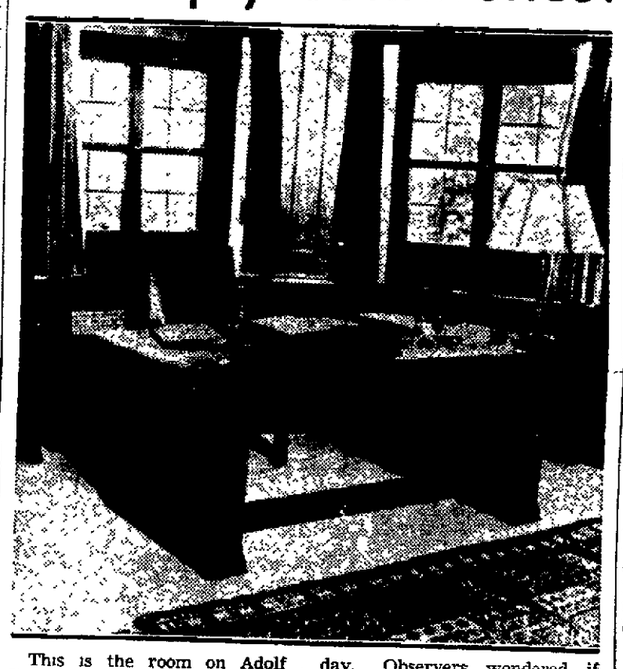
School officials, commenting on the outcome of the straw vote in which pupils were given ballots similar to those to be used at Tuesday's special election, were pleased, and said they wished they could be sure of such overwhelming support for the bond issue at the polls next Tuesday.

Both of the schools in which the straw votes were taken will be replaced by new junior high buildings if the bond issue is approved. A shop addition will be built at Senior high school, and improvements made at all grade schools except Woodland and Western.

Urge Parking Drive

An Empty Room—

An Empty Conference?



This is the room on Adolf Hitler's Bavarian mountain home where Hitler and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain held their momentous conference on the fate of Europe—and possibly the world—yesterday. Observers wondered if the conference would turn out to be as barren and empty as the room itself is shown to be, so far as avoiding a much-feared general war is concerned.

Merchants Appeal To Mayor, Ask Study of Meter Plan.

Nickel-in-the-slot parking was favored today by a delegation of business men representing the Retail Merchants association as they called upon Mayor Claude M. Hunter for more rigid enforcement of the city's parking regulations.

The traffic and parking committee of the association, meeting with the mayor this morning, indicated that they would favor the installation of parking meters in the mercantile district as the alernative to lack of enforcement.

Condemn Enforcement.

They condemned the "loose" manner in which the regulations were now being enforced by the police department, claiming that numerous persons employed in offices parked their cars on the street all day.

This, they complained made it impossible for shoppers to find space in which to park their cars

Members of the committee who told the mayor they would favor the installation of the meters were C. M. Crafton, Harold Getz, L. A. Ott, G W. O'Conner, J. W. Cook. C. H. Saylor and Vale Scouten.

Will Call on Committee.

V. H. Lodde, secretary-manager of the association said the group planned to ask council's special committee, which has had the parking meter plan under advisement for more than a year, for an early meeting to discuss the feasibility of the installation of the machines.

Lodde said the merchants recommended penny machines, similar to ones now beng installed in Columbus, with 12-minute parking for a cent and a full hour for a nickel.

Members of the special council committee which has the plan under advisement are James E. Crum, Russell D. Porch and George Berg.

Mayor Hunter recalled that in his address to council at the first of the year he had recommended the installation of the meters but the plan had "died" in the committee's hands.

PEACE RESTS ON ANNEXATION, HE TELLS PREMIER

Fuehrer Informs Chamberlain Germany Insists on Return of Sudetens to Reich as Price for Peace; Would Leave Czech Territory Intact.

By KINGSBURY SMITH, INS Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1938)

LONDON—Chancellor Hitler informed Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain during their momentous Berchtesgaden conference that Germany insists upon return to the fatherland of the purely German districts of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

This was revealed on good authority to International News Service today as Chamberlain was en route to London to lay der fuehrer's demands before the British and French governments.

Hitler, it was learned, declared that the German districts of the Sudeten region must be returned to the reich not later than Oct. 1.

Otherwise, he told Chamberlain, Germany will be compelled to take all measures within her power to regain them.

Hitler also informed the British prime minister that Germany insists upon municipal autonomy within the framework of the Czechoslovakian state for Germans in those areas in which they form a large proportion of the population, but not an absolute majority.

The fuehrer, it was revealed, indicated that the peace of Europe could be saved by granting these demands.

Would Give Guarantee.

He also said that Germany is prepared to enter into a pact guaranteeing the neutrality of the purely Czech regions of Czechoslovakia, and also is prepared to discuss a program for general European appeasement.

Disclosure of the price Hitler demands for European peace was made as the British cabinet prepared to meet this afternoon or this evening.

After a speedy flight back via Munich and Cologne, Chamberlain landed at Heston airport at 5:29 p. m. He was given a special message from King George, and left at once for London to begin conferences with his ministers.

The prime minister said he had a "frank but friendly" talk with Hitler, and "I feel satisfied that each of us now fully understands what is on the other's mind." He refused, however, to reveal any of the substance of the conversation.

Lord Runciman, British advisor in the Czech crisis, flew back from Prague to see Chamberlain, and commented:

"The situation is very delicate. It is on the knees of the gods."

Runciman landed at Croydon airport only a few minutes before Chamberlain arrived at Heston.

A small crowd, mostly airport and government officials and newspaper men, greeted Chamberlain with cheers of "Bravo! Good old Neville!"

With Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, he sped off to 10 Downing street to meet first his inner cabinet—Lord Halifax, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, and Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare—and later the entire cabinet, perhaps tonight or tomorrow.

Chamberlain declared that later, perhaps in a few days, "I am going to have another talk with Herr Hitler." Amid the crowd's cheers he added:

"Only this time he has told me it was his intention to come half way to meet me."

He said Hitler "Wishes to spare an old man another such long journey."

Chamberlain said, "I have come back rather more quickly than I

Bankers Told Nation Nearing Bankruptcy

New Yorker Blasts at Government's Pump Priming, Sees Loss of Economic Freedom In Address to 300 at Session Here.

Politically, the United States has built a monument that stands as a challenge to the world, but economically the country is headed towards wholesale bankruptcy.

That's the way William A. Irvin of New York, assistant educational director of the American Institute of Banking, sizes up things, he told more than 300 bankers from north central Ohio at the annual meeting of Group Six of the Ohio Bankers' association at the Westbrook Country club last night.

"The American way is being challenged both politically and economically here and abroad," Irvin said as he blasted at the federal government's "pump priming" program.

Scores Roosevelt.

Without referring to him by name, Irvin scored President Roosevelt for setting himself up as the "dictator of America."

He charged the federal government's spending program was endangering the economic freedom of the people.

"We have kept our civil liberties of freedom of government, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of the press and freedom of worship," Irvin said, "but we are departing from the American way of economic freedom."

"True, we have not yet adopted

HEAR BRICKER

County G. O. P. to Open Fall Campaign on Sept. 29.

John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, will open the Republican party's fall campaign in Richland county with a talk Thursday night, Sept. 29, R. M. Hardy, county executive committee chairman, said today.

Bricker is scheduled to speak here at 9 p. m. after a talk earlier in the evening at Ashland. The rally probably will be in the rooms on the second floor of the Warner Brothers building on North Main street, Hardy said, although final arrangements for the session will not be completed until next week.

Plans are under way to have a number of district and county candidates here to speak before Bricker arrives from Ashland.

PORT BOMBED

21 Killed, 70 Wounded by Aerial Attack of Insurgents.

BARCELONA —(UP)— Twenty-one persons were known to have been killed and 70 wounded today when three squadrons of planes bombarded the suburban port of Barceloneta at 10:30 a. m. The British steamers Stanlake and Boby were hit, but the crews escaped.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes today approved a $2,440,102 grant for the straightening of the Cuyahoga river in Cleveland. The federal fund will be used to match $3,000,000 of local funds.

DESTROYS PLANT

Four-Hour Blaze Causes $100,000 Loss at Factory.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. —(AP)— A four-hour fire destroyed a 60-year-old factory of the Birdsell corporation here last night. Secretary James B. Baker said damage amounted to $100,000, of which $65,000 was insured.

Firemen expressed belief a lighted cigaret was the cause.

WPA WORKERS HURT

FREMONT — (INS) — Two men were injured, one probably fatally, when two trucks containing Woodville and Gibsonburg WPA workers collided near here today.

HOSPITAL'S FIRST TRIPLETS

STEUBENVILLE — (AP) — The Ohio Valley hospital here today had the first set of triplets in its history, two girls and a boy born to a 19-year-old father and 16-year-old mother, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grimm.

Licenses Arrive, 100 Obtain Them At Club Office

The new drivers' licenses arrived late Thursday at the Richland County Automobile club office and went on sale this morning

According to Frank Beverstock, deputy registrar, about 100 of the licenses were sold this morning. The cost, as in past years, is 40 cents.

Chauffeur's license did not go on sale today because application blanks had not arrived. The auto club will be the only place in the county where a chauffeur's license may be obtained.

All motorists must have 1938-39 license by Oct. 1. The club office will be open today and tomorrow until 5 p. m.

NEW HAVEN—(INS)—John A. Danaher, Hartford attorney, was unanimously nominated by acclamation for nomination to the United States senate by the Republican state convention today.

FILES REPORT IN O-B CASE

Examiner Recommends NLRB Reinstate Ex-Employe; Company to Protest.

Recommendation for the reinstatement of Tony Colace, 23 St. Clair street, discharged employe of the Ohio Brass company, was made today by Trial Examiner Albert L. Lohm in a report to regional offices of the National Labor Relations board.

Colace had charged before a NLRB hearing here June 27 to 29, that his dismissal on Nov. 19, 1937, was due to union activity. The company charged that Colace was discharged as a casting grinder because of incompetence and quarrelsome attitude toward his superiors.

Representatives of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' union, which filed the complaint against the company,

LOSES APPEAL

Knox County Farmer's Conviction As Wife Killer Affirmed.

MOUNT VERNON—(AP)—The fifth district court of appeals today affirmed the death sentence of Fred Mosley, Centerburg farmer, scheduled to be electrocuted Oct. 11 for the fatal shooting of his wife, Philla, last March 31.

L. W. Goodrich, Mosley's attorney, said he would appeal the decision to the state supreme court.

REJECTS DRY PETITION

NORWALK — (UP) — Petition of Clarksfield township residents for a vote on the sale of beer had been denied today by the Huron county board of elections because the petition was not filed within 60 days of Nov. 8. A petition for a vote on the sale of liquor was approved because it requires only 30 days' notice.

357 MILES P. H.

Eyston Gets Back Land Speed Title He Lost for a Day.

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah—(AP)—Capt. George E. T. Eyston, British amateur racing driver, today was the world's land speed king again.

On a perfect track, under ideal weather conditions and with a crowd of 5,000 spectators looking on, the English army captain drove his huge thunderbolt over the saline course here at the fantastic speed of 357.50 miles an hour.

The first congratulate him was John R. Cobb, fellow countryman, who only yesterday had established a new record of 350.20 miles per hour in his Railton racer over the same course.

Fostoria Woman Dies In Auto Mishap In Georgia.

MACON, Ga.—(INS)—Mrs. Alfred Sholtz, of Fostoria, Ohio, was killed and four other members of her family were seriously hurt in an automobile accident on the Macon-Perry highway near here early today.

Mrs. Sholtz's husband, Alfred, driver of the car; a son, Amandus, and two daughters, Charlotte Sholtz, and Mrs. Paul Wintz, were seriously hurt.

Hunter Takes First Step For Proposed W. Fourth Overpass

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today took the first step towards his plan to obtain an overpass at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad on West Fourth street at the western edge of the city.

Hunter said he wrote 20 property owners whose land adjoins the railroad advising them that the city had under consideration plans for the construction of an overpass and asked for their cooperation in obtaining the necessary right-of-way for the approaches.

The mayor said he hoped to get the specifications and drawings as soon as possible for presentation to the state in order to have the necessary data ready before the highway department made up its 1939 grade separation program.

He pointed out that several millions of dollars had been allocated by the federal government for the purpose of eliminating grade crossings.

The entire cost of the project would be paid by the government with city and railroad sharing in the cost of obtaining the right-of-way property.

The most recent of these structures to be constructed near Richland county is the new $400,000 overpass on the Lincoln highway at Bucyrus which was opened only two weeks ago.

Another overpass is to be constructed on route 30N at the grade crossing just east of Crestline. Plans have been approved in Washington and work is expected to be started within the next few months.

PRAGUE: Czech Government Outlaws Sudeten German Party

PRAGUE—(AP)—The premier's office announced tonight that the Sudeten German party had been dissolved by the Czechoslovak government.

Previously informed sources said the government had decided on suppression of the storm troops of the Sudeten leader, Konrad Henlein, who had fled into Germany from a warrant for his arrest on charges of treason.

These decisions were taken as continued disorders in the Sudeten areas coincided with reports of a split between radical and conservative Sudeten factions over Henlein's proclamation of yesterday, demanding annexation of the Sudeten country to the German reich. It was this proclamation that led to the charge of treason against him.

This created the possibility that one section might accept renewed negotiations with the Prague government.

Otto Ritter, a Sudeten German district leader at Asch, told authorities none of Konrad Henlein's followers had any knowledge that Henlein intended issuing the defiant manifesto for union of Sudetenland with Germany.

A "large" part of the Sudeten Germany ranks, Ritter declared, were "disagreeably surprised." He gave no indications, however, of how many members were involved.

Enthusiasm for the Sudeten German campaign continued in the Sudeten areas although there were no reports of new violence.

The regional government of the province of Bohemia ordered a 24-hour time limit in which all residents of 63 provincial political districts must surrender all arms and munitions they may have concealed.

These steps came as strikes, sabotage and bloodshed stalked the Sudeten region.

WASHINGTON: Roosevelt Views Crisis, Summons Cabinet

WASHINGTON— (AP) —President Roosevelt summoned his cabinet into session today after getting last-minute reports on the critical European situation from Secretary Hull.

The chief executive returned to the capital last night from Rochester, Minn., where his eldest son, James, underwent an operation last Sunday.

Even before he left his special train, he conferred with Hull for 15 minutes. Then the two men drove to the White House.

White House aides announced the president's regular press conference for today had been called off. They said "international reasons" had dictated that change and the tentative cancellation of a presidential speech tomorrow at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., commemorating New York's ratification of the constitution.

Mr. Roosevelt said earlier in the week the tense foreign situation had impelled him to come straight to Washington from Rochester, instead of returning to the family home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Although the president cleared his immediate calendar of engagements which might prevent him from giving full attention to international affairs, he had not as yet decided to cancel his scheduled trip next Tuesday to Chattanooga, Tenn., for a speech at the Chickamauga Battlefield.

A development bearing on the international situation was the announcement by the national council for prevention of war that petitions urging passage of a war referendum resolution at the next session of congress were being circulated in many states.

CHAPTER 42.

THE NEXT THING Noel knew she was taken forcibly to a car, which was soon moving rapidly down the street. A hoarse guttural voice had ordered Noel to sit still and not to speak. The voice had been an unfamiliar one. Noel thought it best to obey.

She was on the back seat of the car alone. There were probably two men, maybe three, on the front seat. All she could recollect of her strange capture was that two men had emerged quickly from the shadows of some trees, one had clapped his hand over her mouth, while the other had taken the child from her arms and quickly tied a cloth around Noel's eyes.

What had happened to Betsy? Noel asked herself the question over and over. The only conclusion she could come to was that Betsy had been taken back into the house. Evidently it wasn't the child they wanted, but herself. And yet why should she be abducted?

* * *

She suddenly remembered that Ruth Chester had said something about Noel's identity now being generally known. Was that it? Was it known that she was Noel Shayne, instead of Noel Doran, and was she going to be held for ransom?

The car moved faster and faster, and Noel's thoughts almost kept pace with it. She was frightened, but she had not lost her nerve. There would be some way out of this. She would keep her eyes open, that is, if the hateful bandage ever were removed. She would watch every possible avenue of escape.

It was hours, it seemed, before the car stopped. The door was thrown open. The rush of cool air made her feel better. She sat up weakly. "Come on, lady, this is where you gets off," she heard in the same guttural voice, belonging to the man who had ordered her to be still.

Noel did not move, however. "Why have you brought me here?" she demanded.

"Lissen," the guttural voice came back, "I'm not answering questions. I'm giving orders. Come on—get a move on."

Noel still didn't obey. Her thoughts were milling about rapidly. She knew she was helpless in the hands of two, maybe, three unscrupulous, perhaps vicious, men. Possibly there was a gang of them. Noel had read detective stories and she realized that this place to which she had been brought was likely a hideout for the underworld.

A rough hand suddenly grasped her wrist. "Get out, will you? Or am I goin' to have to pick you up and carry you?"

She decided it would be best to obey this time. "If you'll release my arm, I'll get out," she tried to say in a steady voice.

* * *

There was a low voiced conversation between two men. Noel couldn't understand what they were saying. But a minute later the bandage was removed.

She found it very dark and that she could see very little more after the bandage was removed than before. She supposed that was why they had removed it.

In another minute she was holding on to the car, feeling her way carefully until she felt the solid ground under her feet.

Growing more accustomed to the dark, she saw the outline of a house above the tops of trees which seemed almost to surround it. This, of course, was her destination. Once she had entered it, what would happen to her?

She felt the same rough hand reach out and clamp over her arm, forcing her toward the building.

She went without resistance, two shadowy shapes following from the rear.

* * *

Then she and the man who still held her arm were climbing a short flight of steps, and reached a veranda. Noel stopped and said to her captor desperately, "If you'll let me go, I'll pay you anything—anything."

The only answer was a tighter grip on her arm. The front door of the house was thrown open then. The man loosened his grip slightly, took a small flashlight to guide them up a long flight of stairs.

When they reached the second floor, he opened a door and gave Noel a little push.

* * *

She found herself in a dimly lighted room with heavy red velvet curtains closely drawn at all the windows. The room was furnished in a rather garish fashion. There was a black marble mantel, a number of gilt mirrors, heavy upholstered chairs and divans, and small, very ornate tables. But it was an untidy room badly in need of being aired and dusted.

Noel looked into the heavy face of the man who had brought her here. He was swarthy and he had thick jowls and small, beady, evil eyes. He too, was looking at Noel and said in his guttural voice, "Didn't know they come like you—both ways. Rich and good-looking."

"Why did you bring me here?" Noel demanded.

The man shrugged. "I'm not the boss."

"Who is?" Noel asked quickly.

"That's what a lot of us would like to know." The swarthy man started to the door, where the others were waiting outside. He turned back. "Lissen, lady, you'll be comfortable here. Nobody is going to hurt you. That's orders. And you'll get along just as long as you don't try any monkey shines."

He went out then, and Noel heard him turn a key in the lock and then take the key out.

There were cigarets and cigars on a table. Noel lighted a cigaret and sat down to think. It had been a long time since she had smoked. And she thought a cigaret might help to steady her nerves. But she soon crushed it out and walked over to one of the windows, parting the heavy curtains. There was nothing, however, to be seen—nothing but the thick darkness.

She went back and sat down in a chair. Now and then she could hear the shuffle of feet outside the door, and knew there were at least two men on guard out there. Occasionally she could hear them talking in low tones.

On a second thought, she arose again and went and tried the windows. There were five of them, and they were all securely locked. That, of course, was to be expected.

* * *

After a long, long time, Noel fell into a troubled sleep on one of the divans.

It was about 8 the next morning when the door was opened and a blond young man came in with coffee and sandwiches. He reminded her of Chris. He had the same nice, boyish face, except his hair was quite straight, and he wore it rather long.

He placed the tray on the table and took a chair without speaking. Noel glanced at him. A feeling of confidence was slowly returning. The young man, hardly more than a boy, really did have a kind face. The other man's had been vicious, so she smiled at this man and said: "Thank you for the coffee and sandwiches. I find I am hungry."

He did not answer, did not move his head. "Perhaps you will have some coffee?" Noel asked, determined to make friends with him if there was any possible way.

"Nothing, thank you," he said in a voice that held a trace of breeding.

Noel gave up talking after that, ate part of a sandwich, and drank some of the coffee. When she finished, the young man took the tray, went to the door and handed it to someone outside. Then he came back and silently took his seat.

What did that mean, Noel wondered. Was he going to remain here? She looked at him again and saw that he was lounging more comfortably in the chair and had his long legs crossed.

"You're going to stay?" she asked.

"Yes," he said, shortly. Then he added: "You might take a reckless notion to break one of the windows and jump out. Not that it would do you any good. You'd only find yourself with a cracked cranium." His voice was resentful. Then he went on coldly, "And you needn't think you can use any of your wiles on me. I hate your kind."

61-Acre Property to Be Offered at Sheriff's Sale.

A 61-acre property in Weller township will be offered at sheriff's sale at 10 a. m. Saturday at the courthouse on a foreclosure order against the Ohio Shale Products company and Edward J. Myers as trustee.

The sale order was obtained by Ralph E. Race, Mansfield, who was awarded a $36,338 judgment against the Shale Products company which discontinued operations here several years ago. The property involved in the action is located along the Erie railroad a short distance from the Richland county home. The land is valued at $2,500.

SCHOOL GROUPS NAME OFFICERS

Country Day Pupils Choose Student Council, Rename Safety Club Heads.

Election of officers of the student council and Safety club marked the beginning of extra-curricular activities during the past week at Country Day school.

At the first meeting of the student council, the following were elected: Beatrice Clark, president; George Gernhardt, vice president; David Burger, secretary, and James Draffan, treasurer.

* * *

Officers of the school's Safety club were re-elected for the first semester. They are: Richard Wilson, president, David Burger, vice president, and Jean Platt, secretary. Rules for the use of the new playground equipment were outlined and patrolmen for the school were appointed by Wilson.

* * *

Children of the elementary grades held their first general assembly during the week, with Beatrice Clark, student council president, in charge. The students displayed their hobbies, and told of their summer experiences.

George Gernhardt showed motion pictures of a vacation trip on the St. Lawrence river, Kent Hadley displayed a map of a motor trip he took through the New England states, Verna Beth and Marilyn Graham told of a trip they took to Niagara Falls, and showed a number of pictures; Elizabeth Funk told of her doll collection and showed some of her unusual dolls, Jean Platt displayed her post card collection, Sherry Carr told of his experiences at Provincetown, Mass., on Cape Cod, and exhibited a train model which he made; Richard Wilson told of a trip along Lake Erie, David Burger told of his visits to the Richland and Knox county fairs, and the Ohio State fair, and Beatrice Clark described a trip she made to her cousin's mink farm, and also showed her collection of 145 toy animals, made of china, glass, ivory and pottery.

France Exhumes Statue Buried Over 100 Years

PARIS —(INS)— The statue of Saint Roch, buried for more than a century in the churchyard of the romantic little church of Bridore near Loches, was exhumed and has been replaced to its place of honor among solemn ceremonies.

The State Institute for the preservation of the historical monuments discovered recently, hundreds of years after the event, that St. Roch had been removed from his pedestal and buried against the wall of the church, because the women of the village were frightened by the terrifying features of the statue.

The parish priest, who interred the saint to please the women, permitted St. Roch, however, to keep his head on a level with the ground, visible only to those who knew his resting place and cared to venerate him in secret.

Murphy Unveils New Mansfield High Eleven Saturday

Tygers Hosts To Akron West

Capt. Nagle, Smith Only Players Who Saw Service In 1937 Inaugural Still With Club.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

INTRODUCTIONS will be in order at 2:30 p. m. Saturday when the 1938 edition of the Tygers rips the cover off the schedule at Stadium field.

Few of the gridsters to wear Mansfield high's black silk in the inaugural against Akron West Saturday will be familiar to the team's followers.

Not a single player Coach Russ Murphy will trot on the gridiron, heavily cushioned by a new growth of grass, appeared in the starting lineup against the same Cowboys last fall.

Played Last Year.

Capt. Rich Nagle and Ike Smith are the only Tygers to draw starting assignments Saturday who saw service in the opener last fall, and they appeared in substitute roles.

Other Tygers who appeared against West have gone the way of all seniors, and in their stead will be promising but inexperienced successors.

This is one of the few years in Murphy's coaching regime at the high school that regular holdovers have been so few.

Murphy will send a touchdown club on the field Saturday that possesses potential greatness, but it will be unseasoned, and flaws are likely to mar the performance to some extent

It will also be a slower team than fans are accustomed to seeing at Stadium field, but it shows signs of packing power.

Johnny Hallabrin of all-Ohio fame will be missed as will a number of other 1937 stars, but the first game will undoubtedly bring out the identity of the stars destined to shine in their places.

Mansfield has displayed indications of strength in scrimmages, but Saturday will probably determine the exact amount

Saturday Tells Tale.

With such ball toters as Nagle, Smith, Lemunyon, Hershey, McMullen and Schwaner available, the Tygers should present a strong running attack, but may be even more dangerous in the air. Saturday's game should determine this question.

In Akron West, Mansfield meets a club which also has been wrecked by graduation. It may lack what is needed to trip the Tygers, but should provide more opposition than the usual opening day foe.

Murphy and his aides made their last check-up on odds and ends in the last drill this afternoon, paying particular attention to the untested pass defense

The Tyger leader again expects the Cowboys to fill the air with aerials Saturday, and he is not taking any chances of being caught unprepared.

Bobby Nash, who tossed the football to all corners of the lot last year, is no longer with the Cowboys, but Coach Russ Beichley will not be without throwers.

His first-class pass receiver, Jimmy Johnson, will demand much attention Saturday.

Mansfield won over West, 18 to 12, last year, and Murphy, not to mention the fans, have not forgotten how the visitors nearly snatched victory in the fading minutes with a long pass completion.

Record Crowd Seen.

One of the largest opening day crowds in Mansfield history is expected Saturday, with grade school students, who will be the guests of the Tygers, helping to pack the stands.

Three musical units will be on hand to help open the season in gala fashion. In addition to the high school band and girls' drum corps, the American Legion drum corps will take part in the mid-game ceremonies.

Announcement was made today by J. B. Moke, superintendent of Mansfield school buildings, urging fans attending Saturday's game to use the new free parking field developed on the west side of the stadium.

Johnny Barrett Sold to Louisville Colonels.

Johnny Barrett, who received his start in professional baseball with the Mansfield Red Sox last year, has been sold to the Louisville club of the American Association, it was learned today. Barrett, an outfielder, played right field for the Hazelton club in the Eastern league this year.

City Tourney Finalists Vie Again Sunday

A topnotch baseball attraction is on schedule for Mansfield fans at Liberty park Sunday.

The game involves the Mohican Chevrolets and Mansfield Merchants, and renews a rivalry inaugurated in the city tournament last fall. The Chevies defeated the Merchants then to gain the city crown.

Manager Pete Metz has himself, Remy and Knackstedt to throw against the Chevrolets Sunday. Potye or Boyer will twirl for the Chevrolets.

UNIVERSITY CLUB HOLDS GOLF TOURNEY SEPT. 23

The annual University club golf tournament will be held at the Westbrook Country club Friday, Sept. 23. Burleigh [illegible] will be in charge of the tournament. The annual meeting of the club will follow dinner to be served at 7 p. m.

Ex-Bellville Coach Sends Sunbury Eleven Against Rams in Madison Opener Tonight

Number of Other Schoolboy Night Games on Schedule in Vicinity.

A COUNTY coaching rivalry of several years ago will be renewed at Madison field at 8 p. m. today when the Madison Rams tackle Sunbury in the season's opener.

The game will again bring together Coaches Al Fendrick and Everett Whipkey as rival strategists after a lapse of several years.

Coached Strong Clubs.

Whipkey, who has been coaching at Sunbury since 1936, formerly served in this capacity at Bellville, and he turned out several teams at the Richland county school that troubled the Rams.

How much trouble Sunbury will offer the Rams tonight remains to be seen, but, according to reports, Madison may not have an easy time of it. The Sunbury lineup includes eight lettermen.

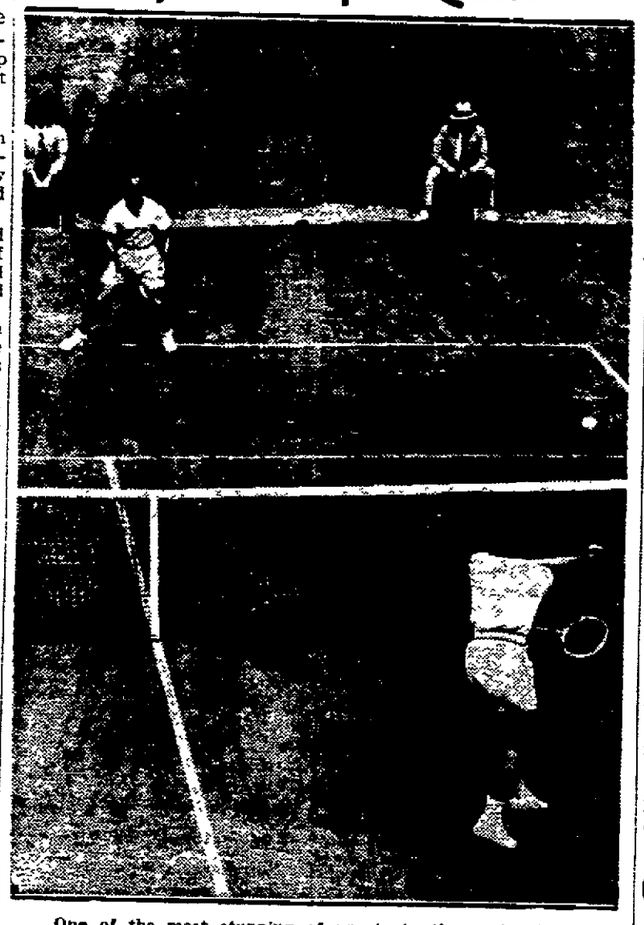
Coach Fendrick has not announced a starting lineup, but players expected to get a call include Capt. Joe Miller, Gene Harmon, Bob Matthes, Doug De Nero, Glen Harner and Bill and Bob Wilkins.

Shelby on Road.

Other night games on the schedule in this vicinity tonight follow: Willard at Bucyrus, Mt. Gilead at Galion, Dayton Kizer at Mt. Vernon, Shelby at Norwalk, and Upper Sandusky at Marion.

Crestline performs against St. Mary's at Sandusky Saturday afternoon.

As Bitsy Grant Upset Quist



One of the most stunning of upsets in the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y., occurred when Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, the Atlanta, Ga., mite, defeated the Australian star, Adrian Quist, in a fourth round match. The two are shown in action on the court, with Grant foreground.

Advances Step Toward Finals

Bromwich's Semi-Final Foe to Be Gene Mako.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The inevitability of a final-round match between J. Donald Budge of Oakland, Cal., and Jack Bromwich of Australia for the national tennis championship becomes more apparent with each passing day of action at Forest Hills stadium.

Bromwich advanced to a semi-final round match with Gene Mako of Los Angeles by defeating Hunt, third seeded American, 6-4, 9-11, 6-3, 6-4. He showed enough to make himself the continued favorite in the lower half of the draw despite Mako's impressive victory over Gil Hunt of Washington, D. C., by 7-5, 1-6, 8-6, 6-0.

The upper-half brackets will be filled today when Sidney Wood, jr., of New York meets Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, the come-back Atlanta molecule, and Budge opposes Harry Hopman, vacationing Australian sports writer and ex-Davis cupper.

Around these matches will be wrapped two women's affairs Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, the demure Cambridge matron, faces Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, Poland's 1937 finalist and Alice Marble, 1936 American champion, opposes Kay Stammers, of England.

Pie Traynor Shows Strain Of Flag Race

Bucs' Inability to Win Twin-Bills Is Reason.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — The most nervous man in Boston today is Harold J. (Pie) Traynor and the reason is because his Pittsburgh Pirates are playing a doubleheader. Doubleheaders are poison to the Pirates.

The strain of the fantastic National league pennant race is telling heavily on Traynor but it's the double-header D T.'s of the Pirates which may land popular Pie in a padded cell if he doesn't win the pennant. In their last six doubleheaders the Pirates have won only two games, blowing both games on four occasions and splitting even in the other two The Cubs have won two doubleheaders from the Pirates, the Giants one and the Phillies one. The Pirates broke even with the Giants and the Bees.

There was a slight sigh of relief in the Pirates' camp yesterday when they bounced back from Wednesday's double defeat to polish off the Giants, 7-2. The victory increased the Pirates' lead over the Cubs to three games and dropped the Giants to fourth place, four and a half games off the pace. Jim Tobin turned in a well-pitched seven-hit game and the Pirates supported him with a 14-hit attack, including homers by Paul Waner (2), Lloyd Waner, Pep Young and Johnny Rizzo.

Even though they lost to Detroit, the New York Yankees moved nearer the American league pennant as the Red Sox and Indians divided a doubleheader. A two-run rally in the seventh enabled the Tigers to trim the Yanks, 6 to 4.

Jeff Heath's homer with a mate on base gave Cleveland a 3-2 victory over the Red Sox in the opener Mel Harder allowed only nine hits. Bob Feller's wildness led to his defeat, 3-2, in the nightcap, though he permitted only three hits in eight frames.

The White Sox and Athletics divided a twin bill, with Johnny Whitehead just lasting to win the first game for Chicago, 5-4, and George Caster twirling a four-hitter to give the A's the nightcap, 1 to 0.

Washington defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6-4, as Emil Leonard pitched a six-hit game. Don Heffner hit a homer for the Browns with two men on base.

OFFERED COACHING JOB

When Mr. Sam Chapman, the eminent footballer, finishes the season with the A's, he can have an assistant football coaching job at California if he wants it.

Colored King Gambles, Wins

Lewis Staves Off Kayo in Final Rounds.

PHILADELPHIA— (AP) —Light Heavyweight Champion John Henry Lewis breathed easier today—he had gambled and won.

The Phoenix, Ariz., king punched out a split 10-round decision over Jimmy Adamick, youthful Midland, Mich., heavyweight, in a furious battle at Convention hall last night. Lewis risked losing his possible meeting with Tony Galento and its attendant big gate by agreeing to fight Adamick.

As it was, only his experience saved Lewis from a knockout in the ninth and tenth rounds. Adamick staggered him with a terrific right to the chin just before the end of the ninth. In the tenth Adamick again staggered Lewis with a left to the body and then chased the champion around the ring in a vain effort to land a knockout punch.

Adamick's strong finish, however, failed to erase Lewis' early big lead on points.

Unknowns Figh For U. S. Crown

Chapman, Victor Over Goodman; Abbott, Kingsl and Turnesa Survive Amateur Play at Oakmont.

By JUDSON BAILEY

OAKMONT, Pa.—(AP)—There is no time like the present to acquainted with the next national amateur golf champion ev though his name won't be known before the middle of tomorr afternoon.

Introductions are in order because few persons ever heard of four semi-finalists who scrambled around Oakmont today after most devastating slaughter of favorites the championship has known.

Oldest at 27.

Pat Abbott, a 25-year-old Hollywood movie extra now "at liberty" in the parlance of his craft, remained in the upper bracket along with a rich Connecticut Yankee named Richard Chapman, who at 27 is the oldest contender left.

Ed Kingsley, 23-year-old ore sampler at a copper mine in Magnah, Utah, opposed Willie Turnesa, New York City youth of the same age, whose name you are likely to recognize because of the achievements of his golfing older brothers than of his own.

Chapman has taken part in five amateur tournaments but never before reached even the first match play round. Rich and social, he beat the more rich and more social T. Suffern (Tommy) Tailer in one of his matches yesterday.

This was negligible compar with the catastrophe he dealt I fending Champion Johnny Goo man in the quarter-finals later the day.

Loses Early Lead.

Goodman, the veteran, the wa der boy who shot nine holes three under par during his mor ing match, went out the same re door his Walker Cup teammat had used earlier.

Canzols Play at Lexington

The Ira D. Ling Canzols, who won the Senior league title this season, will seek revenge for an early season whipping Sunday when they go to Lexington to engage the Whitney Oils.

Manager Henry Kyler requests the following players to report at the station at noon Sunday: K. Lockhart, W. Lockhart, J. Miller, E. Miller, Ziegler, Pittinger, Au, Bogantz, Smollen, Weigand and Theaker.

Zuchegno Flashes At State

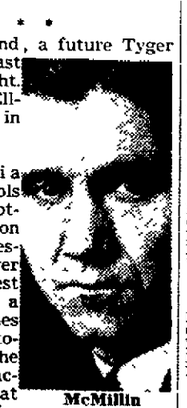
Former Dover High Star Is Slated to See Plenty of Action This Season.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD football fans haven't heard the last of Al Zuchegno, who made it interesting for the Tygers in a couple of football games a few years ago. Zuchegno stacks up as one of the more promising sophomore backs at Ohio State.

* * *

Hammond, Ind., a future Tyger foe, plays in East Chicago tonight. It whipped Ellwood, 19 to 0, in the opener.



McMillin

* * *

Pennsylvania football schools also get a football jump on Ohio. McKeesport, winner over Follansbee, West Virginia, 20-0, a week ago, comes to Massillon tonight to test the Tigers, and, according to what we hear, the visit will turn into a riot. Nice things are again being said about Massillon.

* * *

Pittsburgh has lost eight of its last 11 games, but still holds first place in the National. The Cubs still look good from this corner.

* * *

Wonder what Portsmouth high foes are thinking about these days? The team packs a 200-pound line average.

* * *

Bucyrus' Bob Monnett is still with the Green Bay Packers, and if you heard Sunday's broadcast of the game with the Cleveland Rams, you'll agree he's still playing grand football.

* * *

Friend and foe alike are passing the word along the Big Ten football front to "watch those Badgers."

Charles Maag, 218-pound sophomore giant from Sandusky, shot his personal stock up when he raced the 50-yard dash in 5 9 seconds to rank him as Ohio State's fastest line candidate.

* * *

Dick Ohn, who starred out at the high school a few years ago, is again listed as a fullback in the Kenyon college lineup.

* * *

Southwestern fans are looking for Rice and Texas Christian to keep the section in the national headlines this fall.

* * *

BO McMILLIN is saying that his Indiana club will amount to little this year. Either Bob discounts the intelligence of Ohio State fans, players and coaching staff or he is deluding himself so that he will be pleasantly surprised after the season starts. Indiana had the best freshman team in history last fall.

* * *

If the Cardinals pluck their next manager from the farm as reported, Burt Shotton, now at Columbus, will probably be it.

* * *

The Jacks have it at Michigan State. The backfield consists of Jack Pingel, Jack Budinski, Jack Amon and Jack Koernke.

PRINCETON GRID STAR SUCCUMBS AFTER DRILL

PRINCETON—(INS)—Gloom was cast over Princeton university's campus today by the sudden death of William B Lynch, 22, football and track star who collapsed at conclusion of a light gridiron workout yesterday.

Death of Lynch, a senior from Birmingham, Mich., and son of an all-American halfback at Brown in 1904-05, was attributed to heart failure.

AKRON TRIMS RED BIRDS TO TAKE TWO-GAME LEAD

AKRON—(LP)—The uncertainties of a post-season playoff plan today made the Akron Yankees, unable to finish better than fourth place during the regular season, heavy favorites to win the Mid-Atlantic playoff championship from the Portsmouth Red Birds regular pennant winners.

Behind airtight four-hit pitching by Tom Simmons, Akron blanked the Red Birds, 1 to 0, last night in the second game of the championship series to go two games ahead.

JUDGE BUYS NEW HAT

Judge Landis has bought a brand new fall hat for today's world series meeting.

SUFFERS BROKEN LEG

Ill luck descended on Otterbein yesterday in the form of a broken leg suffered by Bob Waites, sophomore backfield candidate.

Office Cafe Again Sets Scoring Pace

Vern Jones Cracks Out 643 total to Help Team Spill 2834 Pins In Commercial League.

THOSE bowlers who carry the Office Cafe banner in the Commercial B league again went to town in the second week of bowling at the Meder alleys last night.

The Office Cafe keglers punished the pins for a first-class 2834 count to take scoring honors for the night and a trio of victories over the Yuncker Sports.

Roll 1004 Game.

The Officemen cracked out a 1004 total in the opening game, although they dropped a bit in their scoring, they won the three games by good-sized margins.

Vern Jones, lead-off man for the Office Cafe, annexed individual honors with 219-218-206—643.

Led by Flood's 617, which included a middle game of 240, the Mansfield Printers smashed out a 2817 total as they swept their series with the Heilman Grocers.

Next high in the scoring list were the Mansfield Rugs, who upset 2731 sticks to blank the Burghardt Cafe. Lum Burton contributed a 605 to the Rugs' total.

Although failing to score as high as several other rivals, the Satterlee Restaurant retained first place by annexing three wins at the expense of the Metz Auto Supply. The victories run the Satterlee string to six games.

Cycles Win Pair.

Shelby Cycle took two games from the Ringside Cafe. Kochheiser's Sports swept over the Ohio Public Service for three wins and the Sawhill Shoes won three decisions from Richland Printers.

Office Cafe Women Also Lead Scoring.

SHOWING the same class on the alleys as the Office Cafe's men team, the feminine pinsters representing the same restaurant led the scoring on the opening night of bowling in the Women's league at the Meder lanes last night.

The Office women, paced by Yingling's 454 and Altman's 452, came through with a 1966 total and a pair of victories over the Moose lodge. Hilborn shot a 461 for the Moose.

Sophia Meder led the individual scoring with a 476 as she paced the Moderne Beauty Shoppe to a clean sweep over the Morgan Dry Cleaners.

Indians Still Trail Red Sox By One Game

Feller's Wildness Again Spoils Performance.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Dennis Galehouse was to get another chance as a starting pitcher for the Cleveland Indians today as the Tribe and the Boston Red Sox renewed their battle for second place in the American league.

The club split a double header Thursday by identical scores, 3 to 2, in two tight pitching duels before a small crowd of 2,000 fans. The result left the Indians exactly where they started, one game behind the second-place Red Sox.

The veteran Mel Harder gained his 16th triumph of the year in the opener yesterday, thanks to a home run smash by Outfielder Jeff Heatn that accounted for two runs. Harder gave up nine hits, struck out five and walked one batter.

The Tribe counted all their tallies in the opening round. Lyn Lary walked, Roy Weatherly doubled, Averill was out and then Heath blasted his round tripper. Jim Bagby, jr., relieving Jack Wilson on the Red Sox mound, blanked Cleveland the rest of the way out but three runs was enough margin for Harder.

Bob Feller, the Iowa farmboy, had a recurrence of his old wildness in the second game, issuing three walks in the third inning which accounted for one enemy run. He set eight Red Sox down on strikes to continue his major league strikeout leadership. Boston got six walks and three hits off him in eight innings.

CINCINNATI TEAM WINS NATIONAL SOFTBALL TITLE

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Pohlar's Cafe team from Cincinati started home today with the men's championship of the international softball tournament. Westbound were the Kriegs of Alameda, Calif., with the girls' crown.

Cincinnati and Alameda won the much postponed finals last night in a gusty drizzle in Soldier field. Cincinnati turned back the International Harvesters of Little Rock, Ark., 2 to 1, and Alameda beat Chicago's Down Drafts, 3 to 0.

BREWERS LEAD SAINTS, BLUES, INDIANS EVEN

MILWAUKEE—(INS)—The Milwaukee Brewers held a one-game lead over St. Paul today in the American association play-off series and Kansas City and Indianapolis were all even.

The Brewers tagged St. Paul, 6 to 3, while Indianapolis was ringing the gong for a 4 to 1 decision over Kansas City.

THEATER

HERE and there in filmland. Cesar Romero is spending hours on Joan Crawford's set these afternoons . . . Margaret Lindsay's latest escort is Bob Abbott, who used to take Anita Louise places . . . Sally Eilers will go to night school at U. C. L. A. to continue her study of philosophy . . . A portrait of Hedy Lamarr will be exhibited at the San Francisco fair—and the painter will be none other than her boy friend, Reginald Gardiner . . . Dorothy Lamour has been selected to co-star with Jack Benny in "Man About Town."

* * *

Has Her Troubles.

What happens to a temperamental screen star who allows a rash press agent to stage a series of wild stunts to publicize her pictures forms the there of "The Affairs of Annabel," playing through Saturday at the Madison. The stunts lead to trouble which includes jail sentences, dangerous implications with hunted criminals and kidnaping. Five Micky Mouse cartoons will be added to the first show Saturday afternoon.

* * *

Fiction Family Filmed.

One of America's best-loved fiction families lives again in the screen adaption of Kate Douglas Wiggins' popular novel, "Mother Carey's Chickens," the Ohio attraction. The story traces the romances of two sisters, portrayed by Ruby Keeler and Ann Shirley, who fall in love with the same man, James Ellison. Others in the cast are Fay Bainter, Walter Brennan, Frank Albertson, and Virginia Weidler.

* * *

"South of Arizona."

"South of Arizona," with Charles Starrett in the major role is one of the features at the Majestic. Starrett is cast as a cowpuncher whose efforts to solve the murder of a United States ranger throw suspicion upon him. In the cast are Iris Meredith and Edward Coxen. "You Only Live Once," with Sylvia Sidney and Henry Fonda completes the twin bill.

* * *

Silent Stars Return.

Two well-known stars of the silent days are seen in "Under the Big Top," playing at the new Park theater. They are Betty Compson and Herbert Rawlinson. Miss Compson is seen as the wife of a knife thrower. The film is the story of life under the circus canvas. Also on the program is "Army Girl," with Madge Evans and Preston Foster.

* * *

Western at Ritz.

"Outlaw Express," the Ritz feature, brings to the screen another chapter taken from the history of the old west. The story goes back to 1860, and centers around the activities of a postal inspector who tries to clear up a number of murders. Bob Baker heads the cast. Sally Eilers in "Condemned Women" is the second feature.

Ex-Tygers Asked To Join Semi-Pros

Former Mansfield high school players wishing tryouts with the Mansfield semi-pro football team are urged to report to Coaches Frank Beeber and Gip Miller at today's workout at the Fairground at 5:30 p. m.

The coaches said today that there are several posts on the club which they are attempting to strengthen, and new candidates will be offered a chance to win regular berths.

STOCK MARKET OFF STRIDE IN SLOW OPENING

Leaders Drop 1 to 3 Points Despite Marked Contraction in Volume.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market reacted anew today, leaders dropping 1 to more than 3 points despite a marked contraction in volume.

World grain prices, meanwhile, resumed their upward course. Wheat at Winnipeg and Chicago advanced better than a cent a bushel, while rye did nearly as well. Other commodities were backward, including cotton, rubber, hides and coffee.

The market was off a point or more at the opening, with a few large blocks of stock changing hands. Several leaders were slow in opening, Chrysler starting 1¾ lower ata 10:13 a. m., on a block of 2,000 shares at 68⅝. Westinghouse failed to appear on the tape in the first hour and a half.

Trading slowed to a snail's pace later in the forenoon, but stocks continued to lose ground until support was met in the second hour. Steels, motors, rails, farm implements, coppers and blue-chips suffered the largest declines.

Killer of Three Children Prepares For Death On Gallows.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif. —(AP)—Albert Dyer, 33, who said he killed and then ravished three Los Angeles girls, prepared to die upon the gallows here today, unaware of a trial juror's last minute declaration that he had been influenced to vote guilty.

Dyer's attorney sought a reprieve from Gov. Frank Merriam in the light of the juror's statement.

FIRES BACK ON 'SLOT' CHARGE

State Liquor Chief Denies Councilman's Claim He Shared in 'Profits.'

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Alfred Humphrey, chief of the state liquor enforcement division, said today that a charge that he received a share of "profits" from slot machines was the "crazy statement of a despairing man."

D. E. Corn, Ironton city councilman and operator of a cafe, testified before a state liquor board hearing yesterday that he "was told" by Clarence Marks, liquor inspector of Portsmouth, that Humphrey "received half the slot machine profits in Lawrence county."

Corn was called before the board to answer charges of operation of a slot machine and selling liquor after hours. His licenses were revoked by the board following the session.

Humphrey did not attend the hearing, but said later:

"I never saw this man (Corn). It is a crazy statement by a despairing man."

Marks took the stand following Corn's testimony and declared it was "101 per cent false."

As the board revoked Corn's licenses, Chairman Lowell C. Bodey said, "I cannot believe that Dan Rufo and O. A. Thomas would wilfully give false testimony. To be plain, I don't believe they would perjure themselves."

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Two Motorists Same Parking Spot Won't Give In.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—When Motorcycle Patrolman Lloyd Vest found two automobiles parked bumper to bumper and each protruding half way into the street, the driver of each reported he was trying to park when the other attempted to get the space.

"We've been here for 10 minutes. Who's right?" asked one.

"Neither," replied Vest, and he took them both to headquarters on charges of double parking.

DIES ON COAST

Body of C. C. Carroll to Be Returned to Mansfield.

C. C. Carroll, 49, former Mansfield resident, died at his home in Los Angeles, Calif., following a long illness, relatives have been informed here.

Mr. Carroll, a native of Mansfield, was a brother of P. S. Carroll, clerk of the board of county commissioners, and Mrs. L. E. Crotty, both of Mansfield.

He also is survived by three other sisters, Mrs. J. A. Herring of Los Angeles, Mrs. G. W. Mayo of Toledo and Mrs. Claude Woodward of Los Angeles, and a brother, B. R. Carroll of VanNuys, Calif.

An employe in the accounting department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in Los Angeles, Mr. Carroll had lived on the west coast for 14 years.

The body will be returned to Mansfield. Funeral services will be conducted at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday at St. Peter's Catholic church, and burial will be in the Catholic cemetery. The body will arrive here Monday.

GOLD FLOWS IN

$285,101,000 Worth Sent to U. S. From Jittery Europe.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The U. S. treasury acquired $285,101,000 in gold from war-jittery Europe in the first two weeks of this month as the inflow of foreign capital continued at a record breaking rate.

Treasury statistics disclosed that the federal government increased its gold hoard by another $35,000,000 on Sept. 14, bringing its monetary gold reserves to an all time peak of $13,420,568,501.

The wholesale flight of European capital to the United States, an unofficial survey indicated, has boosted the total of foreign funds either invested or banked in the United States to almost $10,000,000,000.

WOMAN CARRIES DIVORCE SUIT TO APPEALS COURT

Case One of Four to Be Heard by Appellate Judges Here Next Wednesday.

A suit filed by Helen I. Moore of near Mansfield to obtain a divorce and property settlement from a man to whom she allegedly was never married, is one of four cases scheduled for hearing by the Fifth district court of appeals when it convenes in Mansfield next Wednesday morning.

The plaintiff's divorce petition was dismissed by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court last April on the grounds that there was no record of her marriage to Charles E. Moore, the defendant. The petition contends the couple was married in 1934, and accuses Moore of neglect and habitual drunkenness. The plaintiff appealed the case after it was dismissed in the county court.

Atty. H. M. Rust is counsel for the plaintiff and Joseph A. Bayer for the defendant.

Bowler Appeals Case.

In another suit, Edwin L. Slagel, Ft. Wayne, Ind., seeks to obtain an award and prize money he contends he won in a bowling tournament sponsored by the Loyal Order of Moose in Mansfield last March.

Slagel, who contends the bowling committee deprived him of honors he won in the tournament, lost his case in common pleas court several months ago. He named Donald D. Renner, Mansfield, defendant in the case. Renner was in charge of the tournament.

Slagel is represented by Attys. Chester L. Teeter and Arden W. Wiseman, and Renner's counsel is J. V. Will.

Howard Heston, who seeks $390 damages as the result of an automobile accident on the Millsborough road in January, 1937, appealed a case against W. P. Nutter of the Nutter Coal company, Mansfield, after Heston was awarded a judgment for $115.

Heston asked the judgment for damages to his car and the loss of a hunting dog which was killed in the accident. He is represented by Atty. H. M. Rust. Nutter's lawyers are Stuart H. Cramer and R. E. Hutchison.

Seeks Compensation.

In the final case to be heard by the appeals court, Violet Murst seeks industrial compensation for the death of her husband, William Murst, allegedly as the result of injuries he suffered while employed by the Vitreous Enameling company, Mansfield. A common pleas court jury refused to grant her compensation.

Her attorneys are Capperman and DeBard, of Columbus, while Atty.-General Herbert S. Duffy and Eugene Carlin represent the State Industrial commission, defendant.

Members of the appeals court are Judges Charles W. Montgomery, Clyde C. Sherick and Charles C. Lemert.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

An unusually attractive little book on China, for younger readers, is Johanna M. Hekking's "Pigtails." The author has lived in that land for many years, and has managed to pack a wealth of information into a slender book, without making it dull. The many illustrations in color and pencil were made in China.

The book tells of four Chinese children, of their daily life, the food they eat, how it is cooked, what their houses look like, and how they are built, of the games they play, and the many curious festivals they have. All through the book she weaves into the story some of their most charming legends and customs. Small boys and girls, who have just had their first day in school, will especially enjoy hearing how Ger Ger spent his first day.

FOR CHILDREN

World's Fair to Have Special Spot for Kiddies.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The "Children's World" at the New York World's Fair 1939 may prove to be the most popular attraction in the 280-acre amusement zone for adults as well as youngsters. Parents will be able to leave children in this miniature world with confidence that they will be under trained supervision and have everything to play with their hearts desire. Not only this, the children will have opportunity for meals and repose.

Hitler's Book Beats All Sales Records In Germany.

BERLIN—(INS)—Adolf Hitler has beaten all sales records in the book business of Germany, and with the exception of the Bible, of the whole world; over four million copies have by now been sold of his autobiography "Mein Kampt," it has been announced officially.

PIGS LIKE CAKE

Pie Also Helps Them Get Fattened Up, Farmers Find.

INDIANAPOLIS—(U.P.)—A group of 62 pigs is growing fat on a diet of pie and cake at the Glen farm near Glen's Valley.

The farmers, William and Archie Glen, decided to feed their two-months-old litter of pigs half pie and cake and half ground corn.

Now, at five months, the pigs average well over 120 pounds.

The Glens said the cost is not excessive, as they only purchase left-over bakery goods for the pigs.

"At present," they said, "the entire herd receives only one bushel of corn a day in addition to the 'dessert.' The pastries contain sugars, fruits and proteins, which build large animals rapidly, and the hogs have always shown a keen appetite for it."

WINS AND LOSES

He Drinks Quart of Liquor on Bet, Then Draws Fine.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — (INS) —Drinking a quart of whiskey at one inhalation won a $10 bet for Hamilton Bibs, but he suffered a net loss of $3.35.

He was taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition and arrested upon his discharge.

"Don't you think," asked Police Judge Edward G. Burleson, "you might have been just a little bit drunk after drinking a quart of whiskey?"

"No sir, your Honor," Bibs answered, "I wasn't drunk — just sick."

Bibs was fined $13.25.

BUTCHERS 'GYP' SELVES

TULSA, Okla. — (AP) — The last thing that J. W. Holinsworth, Tulsa's new inspector of weights and measures, expected to find was a butcher who gave his customers too much weight. But, setting out on his new job, he discovered that about half of the scales that didn't weigh accurately gave the customer too much weight; the other half short weighted the buyer.

RESOLUTION NO. 38-168.

By MR. BERG:

Declaring it necessary to improve Coleman Road from Marion Avenue to Euclid Avenue by the construction of curb and gutters to the established grade.

Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio, Three-Fourths of all Members elected thereunto concurring.

SEC. 1.—That it is necessary to improve Coleman Road from Marion Avenue to Euclid Avenue by the construction of curb and gutters to the established grade.

SEC. 2.—That the grade of said street as improved shall be established grade; and that the grade of the curbs shall be as established.

SEC. 3.—That the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles of the proposed improvement heretofore prepared by the City Civil Engineer and now on file in the office of the Department of Public Service, be and the same are hereby approved.

SEC. 4.—That the whole cost of said improvement, less the cost of intersections and one-fiftieth of the total cost and less the portion of cost furnished by Federal Aid shall be assessed by upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit; all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specifically benefitted by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the expense of printing, publishing and serving the necessary legal notices, the printing and publishing of the necessary resolutions and ordinances, the cost of construction and inspection together on bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments, and all other necessary expenditures.

SEC. 5.—That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in three annual installments, with interest on deferred payments at 6 per cent. per annum; provided that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty days from and after the passage of the assessing ordinance in which case said cash assessment shall not include any item of interest upon bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred installments of assessments.

SEC. 6.—That bonds of the City of Mansfield shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

SEC. 7.—That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvement, not specially assessed, including the cost of intersections, together with the cost of any real estate or interest therein, purchased or appropriated, and the cost and expense of any appropriation proceeding therefor, and the damages awarded any owner of adjoining or abutting lands and interest thereon, and the cost and expense of such award shall be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio, in the manner provided by law, out of the Gas Tax (5/8) Fund.

SEC. 8.—This resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed: Sept. 6, 1938.

Signed: K. P. TROLL,

President of Council.

A Loan Will Cut Expenses

A lot of people say to us: "What difference does it make whether you pay back a loan or simply pay out so much every month on scattered accounts?"
There is one BIG difference . . . Having everything in one place to pay cuts monthly outlay from 20 to 50 per cent right at the start, leaving you more money for current needs as your loan is repaid, to say nothing of the relief and satisfaction of knowing just where you stand and what you are aiming at.

Vote for SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

1. Mansfield Needs This Improvement

Not only is additional space needed, but several of the buildings now in use are a distinct hazard to the welfare of our children from fire, sanitation and poor lighting.

2. This Is the Time to Act

This improvement will, of necessity, have to be made within a few years when undoubtedly costs will be higher. Now costs of construction are low and 45 per cent of this cost will be borne by the Federal Government.

3. The Relief Situation

THE RELIEF SITUATION will be very much helped by the expenditure of a million dollars in our community. In addition, this amount of money passing through numerous business transactions will be beneficial to the general financial welfare of our city.

4. Cost to Taxpayer

ITS COST IS LOW to the taxpayer. The cost is estimated at 83c per thousand. Next year our present tax load for schools will be reduced 40c per thousand so that after this year our increase will amount to 43c per thousand dollars of valuation.

5. Effect on Business

ALL BUSINESS INCREASES as a community makes public improvements. The more attractive our city becomes as a place in which to live the faster will its population increase. Increase in population means an active market for real estate and an increasing volume in all business with corresponding improvement in the employment of labor.

Having at all times the desire to keep taxes on Real Estate as low as possible, we still feel the need for this improvement is so great that we urge the property owners of Mansfield to vote YES on the proposed Bond issue.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT, CLARE? TWO MATINEE TICKETS!
SA-AY! THIS LAD IS GOOD—GOOD AND PRACTICAL!
TO "THE MAID AND THE MAN"! THAT'S A SWELL SHOW! HIGH-PRICED TOO! I'M CRAZY TO SEE IT — NOT HINTING AT ALL!
WELL, I'M NOT GOING TO USE THE TICKETS, CLARE,
9-16
HE'D PROBABLY BE THERE SPYING ON ME AND — WELL, I'M NOT GOING, THAT'S ALL! I'D SEND THE TICKETS BACK BUT I DON'T KNOW WHERE TO SEND THEM! YOU CAN HAVE THEM, CLARE, IF YOU WISH!
PAM!— REALLY, WON'T YOU GO?
WELL, IF YOU JUST WON'T I COULD GET A GIRL FROM THE OFFICE TO GO WITH ME — BUT I WISH YOU'D GO! —MAYBE YOU'RE RIGHT, THOUGH!
THE TICKETS ARE YOURS — IF YOU WANT THEM, CLARE!

PLAN PROTEST ON CLOSING OF MOHICAN CAMP

Groups From Four Counties to Send Appeal to Capital on CCC Order.

ASHLAND—Representatives of groups from four counties who met in Loudonville Wednesday night, voted to carry their protest against the abandonment of the CCC Camp Mohican in Mohican state park directly to President Roosevelt.

John McSweeney, congressman-at-large, who will present the protest, will be accompanied to Washington by O. A. Alderman, state forester, Bryce Browning, secretary of the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district, and M. H. Spreng of Loudonville.

Work now planned would be sufficient to keep the CCC workers busy for a year. If the camp would be abandoned, improvement to the park, including road construction, would be brought to an abrupt end and several tasks left unfinished.

The Department of Interior plans to move the veterans' camp from Mohican park elsewhere in Ohio and transfer a junior camp from Ohio to Nevada for work on grazing lands.

EXAMINE T. B. SUSPECTS

ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. J. C. Gibson was elected president of the Ladies Aid society of Grace Methodist church at the annual meeting at the church Wednesday. Other officers elected were: vice president, Mrs. L. L. Lewis; secretary, Mrs. Frank Lucas and treasurer, Mrs. J. Earl Miller.

This society pays $1,000 each year on the church building fund. As a benefit for this fund the annual bazaar has been planned for Nov. 11-12.

BELLVILLE COUPLE TO OBSERVE 60TH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

BELLVILLE—The objections to a marriage on the part of the prospective bride's parents on the grounds that she and her intended husband were too young to "settle down" appears to have been entirely unfounded in at least one case.

Because of such objections George Shoemaker and Miss Lucinda Vanzile, both of Perrysville, eloped to Ottawa in western Ohio, where on Sept. 17, 1878 they were married.

Saturday at their home in Bellville Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker will quietly celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary.

A native of Pennsylvania, and an orphan, Mr. Shoemaker ran off to Chicago when he was 13, and for years he worked on passenger trains selling newspapers and candy.

He was in Illinois during the big Chicago fire, but says he never saw Mrs. O'Leary's cow. He recalls selling newspapers about the fire on the train afterward.

Before their marriage Mrs. Shoemaker was Lucinda Vanzile.

Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker resided at various points in Ohio and Indiana while he was employed in supervising the sales of newspapers, magazines, etc., on passenger trains in this section.

Later they established their home in Newville, where they lived for 34 years. There Mr. Shoemaker followed the occupation of painter.

About two years ago, with the abandonment of Newville because of the conservancy dam at Pleasant Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker moved to Bellville.

Since the first of the year Mrs. Shoemaker, who celebrated her 82nd birthday on August 31, has pieced and quilted four quilts.

One of Mrs. Shoemaker's quilts a beautiful "Seven Sisters" design, made since last May, is on exhibit this week at the Bellville street fari.

Because of the critical illness of their only living daughter, Mrs. Mable Whisler, formerly of Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker will not observe their anniversary with a formal celebration.

CLIMAXES DRIVE

Rally Tonight Winds Up Rural School Bond Campaign.

The Union school district in Weller and Franklin townships will climax its campaign in behalf of a proposed $75,900 school bond issue with a rally at 7:30 p. m. today at the Union high school in Weller township.

The bond issue, which will be submitted at a special election next Tuesday, will provide for a $138,000 building program. An anticipated $62,100 PWA grant would supply the rest of the funds.

Highlights of the Union school board's proposed building program will be outlined at tonight's meeting by Supt. V. B. Moffett of the Union schools and other leaders of the movement in the district.

The building program provides for construction of a high school building near the center of the Franklin-Weller township (Union) district and imp. the present high school building in Weller township. Cafeterias would be provided at both buildings and a complete vocational department would be established at the new high school, board members said.

POLICE, FIREMEN NAME TRUSTEES

Departments Elect 2 Each to Serve on Pension Boards During Next Year.

Two members each from the police and fire departments today had been elected to serve on their respective pension boards for the ensuing year.

For the third consecutive year, Capt. John Miller and Lieut. Bruce Friday were elected by Mansfield police to serve as members of the police relief fund.

The firemen re-elected Capt. Frank Stahl of Company No. 4 to serve on the firemen's board along with Clarence Hall of Company No. 1 who was elected to succeed Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger. Stahl is secretary of the board.

City council at its next meeting, Oct. 4, will select two members each to serve on the respective boards.

Present council members on the police fund are Russell Porch and Lester D. Hunter while George C. Kyle and James E. Crum are serving on the fire pension board.

Following the election of councilmen, the two boards will hold their reorganization meetings with both selecting two citizens to complete the six-man committees.

OCT. 1 DEADLINE SET BY HITLER LONDON HEARS

Annexation of Sudeten Areas Price for Peace, Premier Told at Parley.

expected after a journey which, if I had not been so preoccupied, I should have found thoroughly enjoyable."

The prime minister had boarded the plane at Munich after a motor trip from Berchtesgaden. The flight to London was broken by a 22-minute halt at Cologne, where Chamberlain had tea.

There were reports that Chamberlain's speedy visit to Hitler will lead to a momentous peace conference among Europe's four major powers—Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

Such a conference, which may be held in Berlin, might bring Chamberlain, Hitler, French Premier Edouard Daladier and Premier Mussolini together at the same council table in a concerted attempt to bring about genuine appeasement of European problems. That, at least, is the prospect envisaged in London diplomatic quarters.

Daladier is expected in London tomorrow to talk with Chamberlain on Hitler's demands and the possibilities of a general European "house-cleaning." Chamberlain is expected to confer with Hitler again next week—probably on Tuesday at Godesberg.

Hitler's demands led to a growing belief that Czechoslovakia will be called upon to make a supreme sacrifice in the interests of European peace. Whether the Prague government will be willing to make that sacrifice—partial abandonment of its sovereignty—was a question that excited speculation.

There were increasing indications that Britain and France are unwilling to plunge Europe into war to maintain the present status of Czechoslovakia, which would be bound to remain a festering sore on the European body politic unless the Sudetens were permitted to incorporate themselves in the Nazi reich.

As a result, diplomatic circles here confessed they would not be surprised if a new plan were offered to the Czechs, envisaging full territorial autonomy, if not outright return, to their native lands of the purely German, Hungarian and Polish districts of Czechoslovakia.

In return for this virtual dismemberment of the Czech republic, under such a plan, the European powers would guarantee not only political but economical security of the purely Czech regions of the country.

Meanwhile, in addition to discussing the Czech question, it was revealed that Chamberlain asked Hitler to state Germany's grievances and demands for a general European settlement, including the matter of colonies, Danzig, trade matters and the central European situation.

Hitler also was asked to ascertain from Mussolini the conditions under which Italy would enter into a new "concert of Europe." This would include the question of the Spanish civil war and would be designed to enable Britain, France, Germany and Italy to inaugurate a new alignment among the principal European powers

Meanwhile, the British cabinet members decided to summon parliament into special session next week to ratify the decisions regarding Hitler's demands which are to be reached by Chamberlain and Daladier during their conference tomorrow

New Foreign Policy Demanded, Berlin Hears.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(By Associated Press)
(Copyright 1938)

BERLIN — Adolf Hitler was said to have demanded both cession to Germany of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten area and binding assurances that Czechoslovakia's foreign policy should be in harmony with Germany's.

This information was volunteered by a man who talked to high chancellery officials at Berchtesgaden, where Hitler received Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain yesterday.

(Czechoslovakia has defensive alliances with France and Soviet Russia, which is a target of the German - Italian - Japanese anti-Communism pact).

Another German demand, this source said, was that after German absorption of the Czechoslovak Sudeten area, what is left of the republic should fit itself into Germany's economic system at least to the extent that Czechoslovakia did not hinder realization of German economic aims

Germany, for instance, must have the decisive word to say on the output of the great Skoda munitions works at Pilsen and the destination of this output, the source said.

The question of union of the Sudeten area with Germany, this informant said, is not even regarded as an issue by Hitler

It was said to have been Hitler's starting point in discussions, with all other questions, such as procedure under which the change could be effected without war, growing out of it.

Chamberlain, it was said, apparently came prepared to concede some form of "anschluss."

Whether Britain and France were prepared to support Hitler's virtual demand for a German protectorate over Czechoslovakia was believed to have been the question which prompted Chamberlain's sudden return to London.

Although German and British officials decline to disclose the nature of the talks and the status of negotiations, there was a popular belief that some hitch had developed.

Nazism, Fascism or Communism, but the government has assumed the duty of maintaining our economic activity."

He charged that present day banking was threatened by the government which had gone into the banking business on a major scale.

"The government makes loans that bankers cannot make," he said, "and then scolds bankers for not making them.

"Not only this, but the government dictates the rate of return of capital in order to make cheap loans for itself."

He said the federal government was competing with private enterprise, compelling collective bargaining, legalized price fixing "for which they condemn you for doing," and has set itself up as a dictator to the farmer by restricting his production.

"Business is still badly depressed," Irvin added, "and hesitation and uncertainty is evident in all lines of industry. The volume of unemployment is still appalling and the debt contracted by the government to reduce the situation must still be paid

"It is time to re-examine with great care and honesty the road we are traveling and decide which way we want to go—the American way or the new and dangerous path that we have been traveling that so far has not brought better times."

At the afternoon meeting, Samuel H. Squire, superintendent of banks in Ohio, talked with the bankers about new uniform examinations and regulations which were set up by the legislature this year. He conducted a half hour question and answer period for the group

Other speakers were H. E. Cook, president of the Second National bank of Bucyrus and president of the Ohio Bankers' association; John E. Wise, president of the Willard United bank and chairman of Group Six, and David M. Auch of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Bankers' association.

Paul M. Eliot, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Savings and Trust company, vice chairman of Group Six, and Paul A Warner, vice president of the Knox County Savings bank, Mt. Vernon, secretary-treasurer of the group, were re-elected for another year.

CZECHS OUTLAW SUDETEN PARTY

Orders Dissolution After Warrant Charges Henlein With Treason.

to have approved the preliminary step for dissolution of Henlein's uniformed corps known as the Freiwilliger Schutzdienst (voluntary protection service).

The Bohemian government provided punishment of prison terms ranging from one month to five years for failure to obey the order to surrender arms.

Henlein's manifesto yesterday demanding German annexation of Sudetenland, President Eduard Benes' order adjourning parliament, and the departure of the British unofficial mediator, Viscount Runciman, for London apparently ended negotiations for peace in the long standing Sudeten-Czechoslovak dispute

Czechoslovak circles derived some satisfaction from the fact that Viscountess Runciman and members of the British mission remained at Prague, an indication that the British negotiator would return

Several other minor demonstrations were reported from scattered districts, but semi-official accounts said there were no casualties.

The public prosecutor at Eger, a hotbed of Sudeten agitation, issued a warrant for the arrest of Henlein, charging him with treason and provocation of political disorder. Authorities said he would be arrested instantly if he attempted to return to Czechoslovakia from Germany, where he has taken refuge.

TRANSIENT HELD TO GRAND JURY

Jailed After He Pleads Guilty to Removing Railroad Property.

Lindsay A Schafer, 44-year-old transient was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond today when he pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of removing railroad property.

Schafer was arrested by N P. Lewis, B. & O. railroad detective who said the man took waste from the journal box of a freight car.

Lewis told the court that the waste was material used in packing the journal boxes on the axles of cars to keep the bearing from overheating and that removing it was dangerous in that without the packing the bearings became hot and often caused the cars and sometimes the entire train to be derailed.

HEAR LECTURE

Camera Club Members Told of Use of Filters.

A lecture on "Why and When to Use Filters" featured a meeting of the Mansfield Photographic society last night at the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms.

The lecture was given by Harry Devine, head of the photography department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and who was in charge of instruction in aerial photography for the Eastman Kodak company during the World war

The club also inspected an exhibit of 40 pictures sent here for display by the Marion Camera club.

Al Strachan club president, announced that for the October meeting members are to display competitive photographs of the swans at North Lake park

DECIDES TODAY ON HINES TRIAL

Dewey to Announce Plans For New Racket Hearing.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Tammany District Leader James J Hines was to learn today where he will face trial again as the alleged paid protector of the Dutch Schultz mob.

District Attorney Dewey in keeping with his desire to "bring Hines to justice," at an early date was expected to announce the procedure that will be followed in preparation for the new trial of Hines

J Richard "Dixie" Davis, confessed member of the mob and its one-time mouthpiece also will learn when he has to go north to repeat before a Rensselaer county grand jury the story he told in affidavit form of the slaying, by Schultz, of Jules Martin a chief lieutenant.

FILES REPORT IN O-B CASE

Examiner Recommends NLRB Reinstate Ex-Employe; Company to Protest.

said the examiner's report recommended that Colace be given back pay.

Claiming that the trial examiner's recommendation "is not justified by the facts in the case as established at the hearing," Thomas Veach of Cleveland, attorney for the company, said the company would protest the decision.

The trial examiner's decision is not final. The company is allowed a 10-day period in which to file exceptions before the examiner's report is submitted to the NLRB in Washington for a final decision.

Atty. Veach said a brief would be submitted to the labor board taking exception to the recommendation and requesting an oral hearing before the board in Washington.

Testimony at the hearing developed that Colace assisted in soliciting memberships to the Electrical union and had obtained 13 members out of 800 employes working at the plant at the time Testimony showed that five of these 13 men are still employed.

The company, through workmen and plant officials, introduced testimony tending to show Colace was a defiant workman, refused to obey his superiors and would refuse to do certain casting grinding work to which he was assigned.

Frank E. Barr, plant superintendent, testified at the hearing that he knew "absolutely nothing" about Colace's membership in the union at the time the workman was discharged.

FAIR, WARMER

That's Weatherman's Promise as Mercury Dips to 50 Degrees.

If you thought it got colder about noon today, you were right, for the mercury dropped four degrees in two hours between 10 a. m. and noon. It stood at a chilly 64 at noon but the rain had stopped, anyway.

The weatherman predicted it would be warmer Saturday when the skies are due to clear.

Last night's low was 50 degrees and the 24-hour average was 61, about nine degrees below normal.

JOINT MEETING

Two Patriotic Groups to Open Fall Program Tomorrow.

A joint meeting of the Jared Mansfield chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, and the Constitution chapter, Sons of American Revolution at 6:30 p. m. Saturday at the Grace Episcopal church will open the fall program for both organizations.

The principal speaker will be William Holsinger, Columbus, state president of the Sons of American Revolution organization. He will talk on "The Constitution, Our American Conscience."

The talks and a musical program will follow a "guest night" and Constitution Day dinner at the church. Mrs. A. Crawford Tuttle, regent of the D. A. R., is in charge of the program.

CINCINNATI — (INS) — Funeral arrangements were made today for John E. Dameron, 11, who was killed when he lost his balance and fell while attempting to board a Louisville and Nashville railroad freight train.

LABOR GROUPS FORM COUNCIL

Electrical Workers Council Set Up by Representatives of Mansfield Locals.

Formation of the Electrical Workers Council of Mansfield, composed of representatives of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America locals, affiliated with the CIO, was announced today by Edwin Beal, international representative.

"The purpose of the council is to draw the electrical workers of Mansfield into greater unity in order to speed organization of employes of the manufacturing plants here," Beal said.

Representatives to the new group are Alfred W. Gilmore and Joseph T. Hawkins of Local 711 at Westinghouse; Kermit Barry and Otto Lommatzsch of Local 705 at the Ideal Electric company, and Joseph Sadan and James Lewis of Local 706 at the Dominion Electric company. The Ohio Brass company will be represented by Tony Colace until a local is chartered at the plant, Beal added.

Petitions for certification as sole bargaining agent have been filed with the regional board on behalf of the Dominion and Ideal Electric locals.

OPENS FALL PROGRAM

SHELBY—The fall attendance program will be inaugurated Sunday for the Men's Brotherhood class of the First Church of Christ. Captains for the program have been appointed and a record attendance is expected out for the opening Sunday, Rev. R. T. Crowe announced today.

HELD TO COURT

SHELBY—Charged with disorderly conduct, Emery Conn of Shelby today was held at the city jail awaiting appearance before Mayor D. B. Young's court. Conn was arrested by Patrolman Jack Coleman Thursday when he was found molesting a family on Second street.

FILES $5,100 SUBWAY PLAN

City Engineer Draws Up Specifications for Smiley Avenue Crossing.

SHELBY—Plans calling for an expenditure of $5,100 for a subway under the Big Four railroad at the West Smiley avenue crossing were filed at the city hall by the city engineer today.

Tentative plans include a 20-foot roadway from Mohican street to North Gamble street, city officials said. An alternate plan costing $6,100 was included in the plans with a 30-foot roadway, officials explained.

If approved by the city council, the city would ask for federal grants to assist in sponsoring the improvement. Under PWA, the city, as sponsor, would pay 55 per cent of the project, while federal grants of 45 per cent of the improvement would be made.

With the deadline past for submitting the bond issue to the county election board for approval for the coming election in November, city officials said they thought the project should be held over until next year. A bond issue had been planned to pay the city's share of the expense

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1938.

Georgia Rejects Roosevelt's Camp.

SUCCESS of Senator Walter F. George in overcoming the opposition of President Roosevelt and winning renomination in Georgia marks the final test in the futile attempt of the President to defeat a number of present Democratic senators on account of their refusal to support all of his New Deal policies.

Renomination of Senator George was not unexpected, but the fact that Lawrence S. Camp, the "100 per cent New Dealer" who was President Roosevelt's vigorously avowed choice, ran a poor third, gives something to think about.

While Senator George favored a number of the Roosevelt policies and balked only at supreme court packing and government reorganization plans, it was the violently anti-administration Eugene Talmadge who ran second in the primaries.

A last-minute withdrawal from the race was William C. McRae, Townsend plan advocate, who attempted to throw his support to Camp.

The uniformity with which President Roosevelt's attempt to dictate to voters, in their selection of state candidates, was rejected cannot fail to be impressive to thoughful persons.

More lies behind this outcome than mere resentment over interference of an "outsider" in what is widely regarded as an intra-state function. In it is also seen a dwindling confidence in the soundness of Roosevelt thinking along lines of national policies, coupled with a steadily growing suspicion that the United States must eventually find its way back to prosperity by restoring confidence to those engaged in private enterprise instead of by encouraging fantastic illusions, fomenting class hatreds and squandering billions of dollars of money secured by oppressive taxation.

However likeable Franklin D. Roosevelt may be as a man and however great his charm and magnetism as a speaker, it is becoming increasingly evident that his unleashed idealism, without regard for practicality, has succeeded not only in plunging the nation toward bankruptcy but has greatly retarded the forces essential to recovery, restoration of private employment and return of individual responsibility and opportunity.

President Roosevelt's attitude heretofore (and in connection with his "purge" fiasco) has been that he is always RIGHT, and that, therefore, any who oppose him must be WRONG.

Whether he can adapt this concept of infallibility to the advantages that might accrue by adoption of a policy of accepting counsel and respecting the judgment of those better schooled in economics and in the handling of personally-earned money than he is, cannot now be foretold—but such a change could have a marked effect on the immediate future of America and the welfare of its people.

Footballs Instead of Guns.

WHILE schoolboys in Europe are shouldering arms in anticipation of a conflict that may involve the entire continent, if not the world, America's youth, equipped with sports paraphernalia, are turning their attention to football.

Europe's young men are being taught to kill, so as to accumulate greater power for dictator-controlled countries. In America, the picture shows schoolboys, with strong bodies and clean minds, being trained in the fundamentals of a game.

This is the contrasting scene today as the nation, although nervous over the tension created by the European situation, enthusiastically greets the opening of the football season this week.

America can be proud of the athletic activities stressed in high schools and colleges in the program to build young men as worthy citizens, and football is one game which moulds the character of men whose fame will be sung in later years.

Mansfield joins the nation this week in filling stadia that present a scene packed with cheerfulness and hope, while Europe awaits war with fear and dread.

More Vote Splitting.

TIMES and customs change. Anyone inclined to doubt this need only read the news from Maine where a leading Republican newspaper, during the state's late primary campaign, printed first-page articles explaining how to vote a split ticket. Other parts of the country have been doing strange things like that for some time. The straight ticket is still voted, of course, but scratching has increased amazingly.

This may mean more intelligent voting, or it may mean that issues are confused and political party differences are not sufficiently clear to hold voters in line. In any case, it holds a lesson for political leaders interested in government as well as party success. The party name is no longer enough for an increasing mass of voters. Issues, men and other factors become of greater importance than the political label if the label lacks definite meaning.

Too Much Private Armament.

NEW YORK police had a grand dumping party the other day. They dumped into Long Island Sound 5,000 dangerous weapons, seven and a half tons of slot machines and 700 pounds of slugs.

The weapons were the most impressive part. There were more than 2,700 pistols, 1,700 rifles and shotguns and hundreds of other dangerous weapons of various kinds.

The same sort of thing is done regularly, on a smaller scale, by almost every police force. The total in any year would be very impressive. There certainly is too much private armament in this country.

Chickens in a New Jersey penitentiary poultry yard have been fitted with rose-colored glasses to prevent fighting. Now there's an idea!

Douglas Corrigan seems to be one of the young fellows who will have trouble adapting himself to the unhappiness of wealth.

Whether or not Bacon wrote Shakespeare is not as important as why later generations have not produced the equal of either.

Watching Trends

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in the official and political life of the nation and in journalism are conducting this column. Today's guest column is written

By MILO M. THOMPSON
Chief of the Washington Bureau of The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — If John M. Hamilton, the Republican national chairman, was wrought up over what he called the "strange argument of President Roosevelt," head of the Democratic party, in behalf of political morality at the primaries, what of the typical practical politicians of either party who are not party leaders?

Their job, as they will tell you and have told us, is not to determine rights and wrongs but to get things done politically. To them, the high morality involved lies in the rightness of objectives, not methods.

Theirs is the task of influencing public opinion and getting out the vote. They try to make news, to stir up talk, to get influential persons to speak effectively, to make things happen for political effect, to turn public indecision to decision and, last but not least, to herd the voters to the polls.

* * *

Sanctity of the Booth.

THEY argue that by whatever means they accomplish their ends, all is made moral by the fact that when the voter is alone in the voting booth, he can do what he pleases without let, hindrance or anybody's knowledge.

But the president questioned that. He said at Hyde park that the situation is probably not moral if the voter happens to be a Republican voter in a Democratic voting booth.

This leaves the practical politician wondering what a Republican voter is and what a Democratic booth may be. He knows that there are many states in which a voter is permitted to choose his party freely for the purpose of a current election. In such a state, the voter gets either a joint ballot, both ballots or whatever ballot he asks for.

And there is no Democratic booth, no Republican booth, but a common booth used by partisans of any color. Even in states which require party registration, where voters are checked against the party lists when they appear to vote, it is often easy to change one's allegiance just before election day.

* * *

'Welcome Stranger.'

THE practical politicians are not unhappy about that. If they are touting a man for nomination, they want to get any legitimate voter they can interest into the primaries to help nominate him. And if they can interest a Republican in a Democratic contest and bring him into the party at primary time, they like it. They figure the Republican may follow through for the man he likes in the general election. But whether he does or not, he will have helped build up a significantly large party primary vote, which is supposed to be a potent influence in a campaign.

They are inclined to ask where they are going to look for converts except in the ranks of the people who have had contrary political inclinations previously.

The president based his comment about morality on the situation in Idaho. He had been informed that Republicans marked Democratic ballots in sufficient number to defeat Senator Pope. That, of course, is unprovable because the marking of ballots was secret. Furthermore, Idaho has the open type of primary and invites a voter to enter what primary he pleases by giving him the ballots of all parties in one.

* * *

Wilson's Diagnosis.

THIS man called attention to a statement President Woodrow Wilson once made.

"Politics in this country does not depend any longer upon the regular members of either party. There are not enough regular Republicans in this country to take and hold national power; and I must immediately add there are not enough regular Democrats in this country to do it either. This country is guided and its policy is determined by the independent voter. . . . I say to the independent voter, you have got us in the palm of your hand. I do not happen to be one of your number but I recognize your supremacy because I read the election returns."

The question of political morality which puzzles our practical politician is this: If President Wilson was right and the situation is still as he described it, the former Republicans who voted against Senator Pope may well have been part of this supreme group of independents. If so, they either had to enter at this primary time the party of their present choice or leave to a handful of regular Republicans on one hand, and of regular Democrats on the other, the selection of nominees. Theirs would then be merely to choose between the two at general election time. And where (he asks) would be the political morality of that?

For the most part the practical politicians hereabout leave such delicate questions to the theorists high in the councils of the party. They know that there must be a great body of shifting irregulars in the land, else how would one explain Harding and Hoover landslides followed by a couple of Roosevelt landslides in the same political generation.

And whether or not the party leaders would deprive these untethered voters of a primary voice, they propose to go on broadcasting political seed and reaping such votes as they may without looking too hard at their teeth, their pedigrees or their party records.

Somebody, they say, has to get things done—politically.

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

NEWS from Chicago is that some of the town's most illustrious racketeers have bathtubs which cost $3,000 each and one has a rug which cost $20,000. But, there are some lamp posts on the beautiful Lake Michigan Drive which are said to have cost $6,000 each and on that scale the city authorities shouldn't begrudge a hard-working gangster a $3,000 tub.

Back in the late twenties, this item would have been less conspicuous. Quite a touch of bravura passed with the business retirement of Al Capone, "Lucky" Luciano and quite a few others, some of whom, fittingly, retired to the morgue. Gangland hasn't half the showmanship it used to have. It has new resources, a few new leaders and new organizations, and in a few spots it is still gaudy but, on the whole, it is taking on a great deal of drab protective coloring.

I have an idea that depression and repeal are changing the picture, along with progress in law enforcement of the F. B. I. type. Quite a few big shots of the prohibition days had to go back to stealing doormats and milk bottles, and there are fields of law enforcement where an insect gun now serves when a cannon was formerly required.

An old friend of my early days as a newspaper reporter, now a first-grade detective, tells me that today resistance by small businessmen against the racketeers is stiffening a lot. They haven't much to lose, anyway, and many of them are beginning to get their backs up and telephone the police, instead of paying tribute.

* * *

BUT, my friends among the police tell me, this is no millenial picture. Law enforcement is still an unceasing battle in this country, and crime still takes its annual toll of many millions from honest citizens. I find intelligent police officers not particularly interested in the big, showy gangsters. Sooner or later they are written off, one way or another. What these intelligent officers are interested in is a new, practical, preventive penology which, unquestionably, is showing definite results, regardless of the generally discouraging story of juvenile aid in American cities in the past.

The Police Athletic league of New York City has recruited 75,000 youngsters — the "Pals," as they call them—in recreational and group activities which beyond any question is proving an antidote against crime. I think it is a story which the newspapers have neglected and which should be given a big spread in every city in the country.

In Manhattan and Brooklyn there have been hundreds of "cellar clubs," which have been comparable to the underground stews of London's Limehouse district as crime breeders. Dope, disease and tutelage in all juvenile and adult villainies have flourished in these dreadful dens—usually rat-infested basements of unoccupied houses. The police did something better than merely drive out the children. They cleaned up the cellars, whitewashed them and made them sanitary and organized their "Pal" clubs in which they became friends and allies of the gamins rather than their enemies.

With the cooperation of local residents and businessmen, they stocked the clubs with juvenile magazines and books, and gymnasium equipment, organized kid bands and orchestras and kept ready at hand new interests and activities as alternatives for the old deviltries. Realizing the youngsters' primitive yen for violence, they stirred up some rock-and-sock athletic competition between gangs, and any lad spoiling for a fight can always get the gloves on with some other combative youngster, and get rid of a lot of surplus steam. They have also organized a great deal of out-door athletics. A careful check on results has shown that it is checking tendencies toward juvenile delinquency to a remarkable degree.

* * *

MOST effective reform is an "inside job." From the early days of the social settlements down to the more recent and more enlightened sociological endeavours, the educated, bathed, grammatical and idealistic world never has had much success in its fine and generous forays against the slums. It is quite possible that intelligent policemen may do better; not that they are comparably lacking in any of the above indexes of civilization, but because they know the people, the lives, the homes and the problems of the slums.

And here's another interesting variant in police technique. They don't classify a juvenile offender as a criminal and they don't arrest him. They cooperate with the "Pals" in setting him straight, seek the cooperation of his parents and perhaps the businessman who has been his victim. I have found keen interest and enthusiasm among the police over their work. And it is my observation that once a cop gets the crooked politicians off his neck, he may be a highly useful, faithful and intelligent citizen.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Sept. 16, 1918.

Mrs. Pearl Hawkins Wright, of Mansfield, was chosen assistant principal of Ohio association of dancing teachers.

Rev. J. T. LeGear and Rev. W. R. Polhamus went to Cleveland to attend Methodist conference.

Many Mansfield young people left to attend college (as a number of them will recall).

Mabel Normand in "The Venus Model" was screen attraction in connection with fashion show at Opera House.

Luther Lee Condon, 31, died at home of his sister, Mrs. Nettie Shauck, West Fourth street road.

Campaign was started to add more boys to Y. M. C. A. membership.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spetka celebrated fifth wedding anniversary.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Sept. 16, 1933.

Eugene Linham, Mansfield, was named director of Ashland college band.

Mansfield High's Tygers opened football season with 33-6 victory over Ramblers of Madison High.

Postmaster Harry E. Hawley was announced as general chairman of annual Red Cross roll call.

Mansfield Telephone company announced $30,000 expansion program and named Milo H. Hieber to position of new business manager.

Michael Hammer, 42, found dead, victim of own gun in hunting accident.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The Battle of Harlem Heights (New York City) in the American Revolutionary War, took place on Sept. 16, 1776.

Your Health

—By DR. HERMAN BUNDESEN

A CHILD comes into the world with a certain inheritance. What he will be physically and mentally depends to a large extent upon his inheritance. However, the things and people which surround him will also have great effect on his life. The child's playmates, school and home influence his habits of living. The home is probably the most important element in the development of proper habits in the child.

It has been said that during the first seven years of life, habits of thinking, feeling and acting are formed. Since during these first seven years the child is, as a rule, with his parents more than with any other person, the responsibility for the formation of proper habits of thinking, feeling and acting, therefore, is largely upon the parents.

To give the child constant attention is a grave mistake. He cannot develop self-reliance or independence that way. The first thing that parents should learn is to leave the infant alone as much as possible during these first years. Do not have him learn tricks to "show off" for visitors. Instead of a child, whose own individuality, personality and rights should be recognized, he becomes a trick animal. The result may be nervousness, irritability and resentment.

As quickly as possible, the dependence of the child on his mother should be reduced. The child should acquire a feeling of independence and self-sufficiency early in life. Children who are given everything that they desire often fail to meet the demands of the grown-up world when they reach adult life. So it is essential that a child be denied the things which a parent feels unnecessary. As early as possible he should learn to accept disappointments and adverse conditions which are likely to enter his life.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

The height of some men's ambition is to pull some other man down.

Much of the charity that begins at home is too feeble to get across the street.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

A man that hath friends must show himself friendly.—Prov. 18: 24.

Timely Editorial

The Campaign Touch.

Whatever anybody else may think or say about campaign contributions by federal jobholders, there is one group of citizens that would vote as one man to outlaw them. That group is composed of federal jobholders.

If anyone thinks that these people enjoy handing over their assessments any more than any other group would enjoy it, he is badly mistaken. When the touch is put on, the boys on the pay roll have to respond with a smile and pretend to like it, but over the coffee, between friends, they will admit that taking their hard-earned cash is about the worst crime on the calendar. If anyone is inclined to get sarcastic about the cash being hard-earned, just try to get on the pay roll. That is work enough for a lifetime.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Farmer's Diary

The Wife Learns to Drive.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOR several weeks I have been teaching my wife to drive the car. Twelve years ago—before my time—she drove a Model T coupe through crowded traffic of a big city with no fatalities. But the modern, gear shift car she has left to me. . . . until now it seems advisable to us both that she should learn.

She is a willing student, but takes the driver's place with some misgivings. I find her regular seat, upon my right, just as hard for me to fill. She often tells me when she gets too near a ditch, that she would rather have a stranger teach her to drive. When she hits the one loose stone for a hundred feet or more along the highway, and I wince, she smiles at my discomfiture. It takes all the will power at my command to keep silent while she backs and turns, tries to park, or tries out the emergency on a slope. At such times I clutch the cushions until my hands are white from strain.

Once when we drove into the garage, she forgot to turn off the switch, and released the clutch when the car had almost stopped. My yelling "Whoa!" didn't keep us from a wicked jolt against the front studding.

But during the last few attempts she has gained confidence. One reason, I believe, is that we went to salesroom, where through glass we saw the several movements of the gears, as the lever was pushed about to the four points, when the clutch was pressed down and released before each shift was made. After this demonstration, she found driving more interesting than ever, and volunteered the remark that at last she began to understand the thing a little.

Any man of a mechanical turn of mind, who knows just what takes place within the transmission housing when the shift to high, low, or reverse is made, will learn to drive with greater ease, and will seldom grind the gears. I believe that goes for women, too. At least the driver's seat is no longer wholly mine, but I can now look at some of the pleasant sights along the road, while she keeps her eyes glued to the road ahead . . . and the experience is very enjoyable to us both.

Listen, World!

Look What's Happened to Papa!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THESE Modern Men—Perhaps you'd be surprised to know what's hurting them most.

'Tisn't market crashes. 'Tisn't strikes. Or all these new taxes. Or even the war menace.

It's something harder to take. Something tougher to stand. Something that gives them a bigger headache, trying to figure it out.

IT'S THE SPOT THESE MODERN WOMEN HAVE PUT THEM ON.

Hitherto, men didn't have to worry about spots. They owned all there were. 'N' strutted their stuff when and where they pleased without any back-sass from mere females.

Not that they were particularly cruel about it. Most of our Horror Tradition, I honestly believe, has been deliberately manufactured by the girls themselves. As a Monster, man is largely overrated. Leave the average male alone and he's both too lazy and stupid to be cruel. All he wants is to be left alone with the Other Boys, do as he pleases, and collect the medals therefrom.

Which, roughly speaking, was the masculine status before the Feminine Peril came along and spoiled everything. Up to that time, Papa was Boss and no questions asked. He didn't have to prove what he knew or explain how he came to know it. Nobody challenged him . . . or put him through a mental test . . . or asked him to qualify. He just naturally ran the range because he'd been born a male.

Then, all of a sudden and with practically no warning, along came these Dagonned Women asking him How Come and Why For? And, horror of horrors, demanding an answer and sticking around until they got it! Which, believe me, was the heckuva predicament for many a masculine citizen!

For, when you come right down to brass tacks, how's a man going to prove that he is superior? Or even equal! Just as long as the gals took his word for it everything was jake. Failing that, he could squelch 'em with some basso-profundo bellowing or a well-aimed sock on the puss. All of which were natural male privileges and prerogatives.

But what's a chap to do when a lady can both out-bellow and out-sock her lord and master?

And where, I ask you, is the world going, when males, as such, are just so much beef on the hoof? And you've got to prove that you're The Answer to a Maiden's Prayer with something more than an Adam's Apple and a dash of bay rum.

Which is the reason, in case you've wondered, for that muffled sobbing you've heard on your neighbor's lawn around 3:45 a. m. It's merely the Mrs. asking the Mister what-he-thinks-he-is-anyway. Which is certainly a tough question for any Mama's Precious to tackle at any time of day. But not only must Papa give proper reply at 3:45 a. m. in the privacy of a couple of city blocks of real estate but he's got to keep on explaining and expounding, proving and qualifying himself all 'round the clock or it's-just-too-bad.

No kidding, even as a female I can see that this isn't much fun. Just check it on yourself, girls. Suppose you'd been given the Presidential Salute ever since Mama buttoned you into panties, without ever being required to furnish the slightest other proof that you were entitled thereto. And suddenly—bango—along comes 90 pounds of Female Fury and proceeds, without half trying, to make you look like Jo-Jo the deaf-mute-idiot from Whango-Whango Land. How'd you like it?

YOU WOULDN'T LIKE IT . . . AND YOU'D SAY SO . . . EVEN IF SHE SUPPORTED YOU AND YOUR FIVE KIDS AND PAID OFF THE MORTGAGE TO BOOT.

And what would you do? You'd do exactly what 9,783,276 Mad Papas are doing right now—

You'd peeve 'n' pout—
And grouch and growl—
And throw a fit—
And stay in it—
Until you learned
That this is 1938—
And sex is no longer
A treat or an alibi—
So you'd better qualify—
OR ELSE!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here is an amusing though, at the time, annoying little contretemps that happened the other day, and as it is something that might very well happen to you at one time or another I think you ought to know about it. It may save you some grief, especially if you ride taxicabs in New York.

This friend of mine, this Mr. A got into a cab, with his valise, and instructed the driver to take him to the Shelton hotel. A few minutes later he changed his mind. He yelled, "Hey, driver, let me off at the McAlpin. I have to see Ernest. Ernest is my favorite barber, and I need a hair trim. I'll tell you what. You let me off at the McAlpin and then you take my bag on over to the Shelton and check it for me. Leave the check in my name at the desk."

This was obsolutely okay with the driver, and after Mr. A. wrote down his name and gave him sufficient money to cover the fare and the baggage check, the cabby drove away. Meanwhile something prompted Mr. A. to make a note of the cab's license number.

* * *

TIME passed. It became dark. Soon the night wore away, and about 9 o'clock next morning your agile correspondent entered the Shelton and went up to Mr. A's room to have a cup of coffee with him. Mr. A. and I belong to a very exclusive coffee club. We are the only members there are. But he wasn't joyously sipping his brew when I arrived. He was sitting on the side of the bed, chin in hand gazing morosely into space. Furthermore, the usually impeccable Mr. A. was badly in need of a shave. That he had slept in his shorts was obvious, there being no pajamas in sight.

"What in the world has happened to you?" I cried.

He sighed, shrugged and announced solemnly: "The detectives will be here any minute now."

Noting my stupefaction, he explained. He told how the taxi man had gone off with his bag. In that bag were his razor, his change of linen, everything he needed. Only, there was no bag. There was no trace of a bag.

Of course, in this extremity, he had telephoned the police. And now they were coming up.

It was at this juncture that Detectives Frank Raihl and Hugh Fox of the 51st police station walked into the room. They came jauntily in with huge smiles on their faces. And the bag. They had the bag, all right. With the taxi license number as a guide, they had hauled the frightened driver before the bar at 4 o'clock that morning.

But this cabby. He told a very good story, and proved it. He was French, and spoke English only brokenly. He had misunderstood Mr. A. and had checked the bag into another hotel. He had even left a note for Mr. A. with the bag. And so the poor cabby wasn't to blame at all.

* * *

NEVERTHELESS, it is a good thing that Mr. A. had jotted down the cabby's number. There are 31,000 taxicabs in New York. Without that number the hunt might have been a difficult one. Detective Raihl and Fox believe they could have located the bag anyway. They probably could have.

Moral: Never ask a taxi driver to check your bag unless you check his number, even if Ernest is going to trim your hair. If you do you may wake up to find that you're trimmed in More ways than one. At all events, keep your chin up and put in a hurry call for the police—preferably Detectives Raihl and Fox. If results are possible, they'll get them for you.

STUDENTS MIX SCHOOL BONDS AND FOOTBALL

Senior High Assembly Boosts Special Issue; Rally for Grid Game Follows.

A pep rally and an assembly to boost the special school bond issue which will be voted on next Tuesday were staged today at Senior high school as the students held their first assemblies of the school year.

The bond assembly was held this morning and the pep rally this afternoon. Guest speaker during the assembly was D. O. Meese who emphasized the importance of the passing of the bond issue. S. K. Jorgenson, director of the high school orchestra, played a violin solo, and Janet Kelley acted as assemly chairman.

The pep rally this afternoon was in preparation for the opening football game of the season tomorrow afternoon with Akron West. Members of the team were introduced to the student body, four cheer leaders led the student body in several school "yells", and the band, directed by J. Merton Holcombe, played several marches and school songs. George Sherman, of the school faculty, explained the student activity books to the students. Gene Lantz was chairman of the rally.

The first of the weekly noonday dance sessions of the year was conducted this noon in the gymnasium with Harold Duda and his orchestra furnishing the music. The dances are held each Friday during the lunch period from 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m., and are open to all students of the school.

Students are given 30 minutes in which to eat their lunch and it is during this time they are allowed to go to the gymnasium. The dances are sponsored by the Student Representative council, and were inaugurated last year. Five cents is charged each student to dance and three cents to watch. Proceeds go to the school.

CHICKENS DUMB, NOT SUCKERS

They're Smart Enough Not To Eat Poisoned 'Hoppers.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(AP)—If you think a chicken is "awful dumb" revise your estimate. They're smart enough not to eat poisoned grasshoppers.

F. E. Whitehead, entomologist at Oklahoma A. & M. college, experimented to determine if poisoned bran, fed to grasshoppers, had ill effects to fowl that might consume the 'hoppers.

"A pen of chickens learned quickly that the 'hoppers we attempted to feed them were poisoned and they would eat only the legs of the insects," he said. "When the rations were changed again and unpoisoned 'hoppers were fed to them, the chickens ate them with gusto."

LEASE SOUGHT ON SOUTH SEA ISLAND 'UTOPIA'

Australian Heads Project and Opens Books for New Colonists.

(By United Press)

MELBOURNE — Fred Briggs, until recently attached to the photographic section of the Royal Australian Air Force, has launched a project for the founding of a South Sea Island Utopia of the kind that has been the dream of thousands for at least a century.

The island which Briggs has chosen as the site of his South Sea paradise is that of Nukahiva of the Marquesas group. He is there making surveys and conducting negotiations with the French government for a lease on the island.

Should these negotiations fail, he has a number of other islands in view in the South Seas which will answer his purpose equally as well.

The South Sea Utopia is to be known as the International Goodwill Settlement and membership is open to any one who is in a position to pay fare there, contribute $400 to a community fund and who is willing to abide by the regulations of the community.

Isle 47 Miles Square.

The island of Nukahiva, which Briggs hopes to be able to lease, is uninhabited now. It is 47 miles square, has well watered fertile valleys and verdure-clad mountains rising to an altitude of 4,500 feet.

There is plenty of food awaiting the future Utopians in the form of goats, pigs and cattle which roam the jungles. Fruit hangs from the trees and vines waiting only to be picked. There is also the bread fruit that was taken to the island from Java by the ancestors of the Polynesians.

Members who have signed up to join the colony range in age from infancy to 70 years. They are all of British descent from various parts of Australia, and, although differing in tastes, ideas and background, are united in the belief that such a Utopia will fulfill their desires to escape from what they feel is the ugliness of present civilization.

It is not the intention of Briggs that the colony shall in any way "go native," but rather that the colonists shall bring with them and preserve all of the amenities of civilization. He believes, however, that the community eventually may grow to be like the natives who once lived there but who were killed. Only 2,500 of the 100,000 natives who originally inhabited the Marquesas group of 13 islands now remain.

However, among the original population of Nakahiva there was not a man less than 6 feet tall and not a man or woman, although the latter were diminutive in stature, who would not have made a fit subject for a sculptor. Briggs is convinced that this physical ideal can again be attained by the colonists.

While Briggs holds that the island would be able to support the population without work, he does not intend that the colonists shall remain idle. They will be expected to build houses, grow produce, engage in stock raising, fishing and the search for minerals which are believed to exist in the island.

Fresh Figs Only Addition to Food Market This Week

Aside from fresh figs, the weekend market will offer little in the line of new fruits and vegetables, but there will be plenty of tasty fresh produce for the shopper. In addition to the usual list of homegrown vegetables, including beets, carrots, cabbage, turnips, and tomatoes, there will be Ashland celery.

Head lettuce has improved considerably in quality and quantity in the past few days and is now available as a fresh green. The end of the corn season approaches but there will be some white ears on the market tomorrow.

California blue plums, seedless and blue grapes, and an abundance of homegrown melons including the favorite honey rock will be on the stands.

For those who put up pickles, there is a promise of pickles on the market tomorrow, and there are plenty of red mangoes for various types of relishes and preserves.

ICKES APPROVES

$818,000 In Ohio Grants Win Federal Endorsement.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—PWA Administrator Harold Ickes today approved grants of $818,181 for new Ohio State hospital buildings and $426,000 for highway bridges in Youngstown.

The hospital building program includes six cottages and additions to the power plant at Cleveland state hospital; a three-story nurses' home at Toledo State hospital; one-story dining hall at Longview State hospital in Cincinnati, and new welfare cottages at Dayton and Massillon hospital.

ICKES WARNS

Urges Speed on PWA Project Requests; Deadline Jan. 1.

WASHINGTON— (INS) — PWA Administrator Ickes has warned communities throughout the nation to speed up application for projects to meet the construction deadline of Jan. 1, set by congress.

At the same time, Ickes denied reports that the giant program was lagging behind schedule.

Ickes declared that because of undue delay 25 projects in the 1938 program have been rescinded and the funds allocated to other communities. He added that these allotments were revoked "only after PWA has made unsuccessful efforts to obtain action on the part of the applicant."

Tempting new way to use up cold chicken, veal or pork

SEE if you ever mixed a biscuit crust so easily before. See if you ever had one that tasted so good! Cooking experts for 281 home-making schools say Spry's the creamiest shortening they ever used. Gives such light cake, flaky pastry, crispy, digestible fried foods.

In 6-lb., 3-lb., 1-lb. cans

CHICKEN ROLL

1½ cups cooked chicken, finely cut
½ cup ripe olives, chopped
1 tablespoon pimiento, chopped
½ teaspoon onion, minced
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons Spry
⅔ cup milk (about)
2 tablespoons butter

Combine chicken, olives, pimiento, onion, salt and paprika. Let stand while biscuit dough is being made.

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cut in Spry until mixture is as fine as meal. So quick and easy with this triple-creamed shortening! Add milk, mixing until a soft dough is formed. Roll dough into a rectangle about ¼-inch thick. Spread dough with butter, then with chicken mixture. Roll like jelly roll and prick top of roll with fork.

Place in oblong baking dish greased with Spry. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. You'll be delighted how wonderfully tender and light the biscuit crust is! But remember, for best results, be sure to use Spry. Serve with Fresh Mushroom Sauce. Serves 8. A combination of cooked veal and pork may be used instead of chicken.

FRESH MUSHROOM SAUCE

3 tablespoons Spry
1 pound fresh mushrooms
¼ teaspoon onion, minced
4 tablespoons Spry
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
2 cups mushroom stock
2 tablespoons cream

Melt Spry in skillet. Add sliced mushroom caps and onion. Cover and cook until tender.

Melt Spry in saucepan; add flour, salt and pepper and blend well. For delicate flavor in all your cream sauces be sure to use pure, digestible Spry. Add mushroom stock (made by boiling the mushroom stems and peelings) gradually, stirring constantly, and continue stirring and cooking until thickened. Add cream and blend. Add sautéed mushrooms. Makes 2 cups sauce.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

ANOTHER NOVEL DEPICTS SOUTH, ITS STRUGGLES

"And Tell of Time," Added by Public Library, Deals With Returned Soldiers.

Since the advent of the Margaret Mitchell saga of Civil War days, novels about the deep South have been coming thick and fast from publishers' desks. One of the latest acquisitions at the Mansfield Public library is "And Tell of Time" by Laura Krey.

Miss Krey paints vividly the struggles of the returned Confederate soldiers. Both geographic description and characterization of white and colored people are strikingly done by the writer's facile pen. The life of Cavin Darcy and his Georgia bride, Lucina, and their struggles to rid their land of carpet-baggers is the chronicle told.

A biographical novel of Thomas Carlyle and his wife against the background of their colorful times is the subject of "Speaking Dust" by Elsie Thornton Cook.

Pure fiction is the tale, "Miss Dean's Dilemma," written by Dorothy E. Stevenson. Partly in diary form, a lovers' quarrel is cleared up after many years.

Other fiction now being placed on the library shelves includes "Retreat" by Aminoff; "Red Flag" by Austin; "Thieves' Picnic" by Charteris; "Man Who Murdered Goliath" by Homes; "Mexican Masquerade" by Lorne and "Friday Market" by Meadows.

Sketches Political Leaders.

Carleton Beals' new book, "Glass Houses," is an account of 10 years of free-lancing. It is a combination of diary, guidebook, and biographical sketches of political leaders.

Meade Minnigerode brings out a timely biography in "Marie Antoinette's Henchman." The tale traces the career of Jean, Baron de Batz, who sought to rescue the king and his family during the French revolution.

Light verse by Ogden Nash is always hilarious reading. His latest is "I'm a Stranger Here Myself."

Two books about the earth on which we live furnish interesting reading. One, "The Book of Earths," by Edna Kenton, tells of the concepts which man has formed of the earth and its relation to the universe, from the earliest times until the present day. The second, "Biography of Mother Earth," by Henry Smith Williams, is an illustrated story of geological progress based on the authors' "Geoid-Balance Hypothesis."

Other non-fiction books at the library are "Parents and the Latch Key" by Reisner; "Christianity and Sex" by Cabot; "Canada, The Pacific, and War" by Strange; "Swedes In America, 1638-1938" by Benson and Hedin; "Television: A Struggle for Power" by Waldrop and Borkin; "Old Southern Receipts" by Pretlow; "How to Study Architecture" by Caffin; "Famous Single Poems" by Stevenson, editor; "Best One-Act Plays of 1937" edited by Mayorga; "American Points of View, 1935" edited by Cordell & Cordell; "Watchmen of the Sea" by Perry; "Vocations In Fiction" by Ingenfelter, and "Best Books of the Decade, 1926-1935" by Dickinson. The last two are reference books.

PROPOSES PIG FARM AS CITY'S GARBAGE DISPOSAL SOLUTION

(By United Press)

CHARLESTON, W. Va — A "self-liquidating" garbage disposal plant which is nothing more than a glorified pig sty is being planned by L. H. Oakes, long-mustached mayor of South Charleston.

Mayor Oakes announced that the city had acquired 52 lots at the edge of town—about 12 acres in all. His plan is simply to put a lot of hogs on the tract and let them eat up the city's garbage.

There is a good stand of timber on the tract that could be used in building a fence, he pointed out.

"The way it looks now, the city won't have to put a dime on the project," the mayor said.

There was no estimate of how many pigs it would take to run the disposal "plant."

"We'll see how much garbage we have," Oakes said. "Then we'll be able to see how many pigs we can fatten.

Other features of the plan call for quarrying operations on the tract to get sandstone for use in street construction.

According to the mayor, the amount of the purchase of the land is included in a bond issue call to be placed before voters next month. The estimated price is $200 an acre.

Suit Threatens to Close State Legion Headquarters

FUNDS OF WAR VETS TIED UP BY INJUNCTION

State's $15,000 Donation to Send Band to Convention Attacked in Action.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—A taxpayer's suit brought by Arnett Harbage, West Jefferson farmer and self-appointed guardian of state funds, today threatened to close state headquarters of the American Legion.

Harbage filed suit in common pleas court here to restrain the state from giving $15,000 to the American Legion to send a band, drum corps and quartet to the national legion convention in Los Angeles next week.

The state emergency board had appropriated the $15,000 and had given a voucher to the American Legion. The organization deposited the voucher in its bank and sent the Canton band, the Massillon drum corps and the Crooksville quartet to Los Angeles Thursday.

Can't Honor Check.

Judge Cecil J. Randall yesterday granted a temporary injunction which prevented the state treasurer from honoring the check so that the bank could not obtain the state money. The result was that "$10,000 or 12,000" of American Legion money in the bank was tied up.

Paul M. Herbert, attorney for the Legion, warned that the court action would force closing of the state offices here and lay off of Legion employes throughout the state.

At the close of a two-hour hearing, Judge Randall said "there has been sufficient showing by the plaintiff that this matter should be held in status quo until it can be heard thoroughly and properly upon final hearing."

Herbert argued that the Legion "carries on functions of the state government, such as care of disabled veterans."

But Mrs. Agnes Dickinson, attorney for Harbage, replied that "the Legion is no more a state institution than the bar association."

William Evatt, special counsel for the attorney general's office, said there was ample precedent for making such state donations.

George, Winner In Georgia, Willing To Forget 'Purge'

ATLANTA —(U.P.)— Sen. Walter F. George, victor over President Roosevelt in the Georgia senatorial primary Wednesday, pleaded for Democratic unity today, declaring that he bore no grudges.

"We cannot afford bitterness after the election," he said in a "victory" speech. "Good Democrats will lay aside all differences and work for the common good.

"This is no time for bias, malice or hatred. Differences have existed but they were orderly and within the party. We shall forget these differences now."

George won re-nomination, which, in this one party state is tantamount to re-election, easily though President Roosevelt asked his constituents to retire him. Virtually complete returns gave him 141,902 popular votes, former Governor Eugene Talmadge, 102,150, and U. S. Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, President Roosevelt's candidate, 78,096. George had an easy majority of county unit votes—the governing count in Georgia. Gov. E. D. Rivers also won re-nomination.

S. H. WORKMAN TAKEN BY DEATH

Ankenytown Resident Stricken at Age 84; Rites Sunday.

FREDERICKTOWN — S. H. Workman, 84, died at his home in Ankenytown last night after a brief illness.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Workman; a son, Orlin J. Workman, of Ankenytown; a daughter, Mrs. Weltha Leslie of Bryan; two brothers, A. R. Workman of Illinois, and J. C. Workman of Loudonville; two sisters, Mrs. J. B. White and Mrs. John Nyhart, both of Danville, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Church of the Brethren in Ankenytown with Rev. Martin Kreiger and Rev. Charles Zunkle in charge. Burial will be in the Ankenytown cemetery.

'STRIKERS' WIN

Parents, Pupils Told School Will Be Reopened.

SANDUSKY—(AP)—Victory was the reward today of parents and pupils who engaged in a four-day "strike" against closing the Florence township school, located 25 miles east of here.

Erie County School Supt. B. L. Pierce announced that classes for the 34 pupils would open Monday, with one teacher in charge of the six grades.

Add to the list of checker "champs" in Mansfield the name of J. C. Lewis, 450 Marion avenue. Lewis, who recently returned from a trip to Glasgow, Scotland, was crowned the winner of a checker tournament staged on the liner Transylvania of the British Anchor Lines on its return trip to New York. The tournament was in progress for three days. Mrs. Lewis accompanied her husband on the trip.

Parking space will not be at a premium at Mansfield high school football games this year as it was in the past. To relieve congestion on the streets adjoining the high school, J. B. Moke, superintendent of Mansfield school building, has developed the lots west of the stadium into a free parking field. The field is being graded and cindered and will be ready for tomorrow's Tyger opener with Akron West.

Della Gandert, secretary to Service-Safety Director Earl Nist, has made a $300 "gift" to the city. For the past two weeks she has been working on the reclassification of relief clients, working overtime and often late at night at the relief office. The state requires a notarized statement from each client. She has notarized 1,200 statements—waiving the customary notary fee of 25 cents. Figure it out—1,200 times 25 cents makes $300.

Attracting almost as much attention as a hand-made model of the giant steamer, Normandie, on display in a Main street window, is a playful mouse which comes out of a hole under the model ship and cavorts before the eyes of spectators. The mouse, which is not a part of the display, pays little attention to the groups of pedestrians who stop to inspect the model. The realistic boat, about three feet long, was built by Jay McKinley, East Mansfield youth.

ARMY HONORED

Roosevelt Presents Trophy for Outstanding Air Achievement.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt, surrounded by top ranking government aviation officials, today presented the Collier trophy, most prized aeronautical award, to the army air corps.

It was the fourth time the air corps has taken the trophy, presented annually for the year's outstanding aeronautical achievement. This time the award was made for the army's work in developing the first airplane capable of flying safely and practically at high altitudes.

The army pressure cabin method, which won the award, involves supercharging the air within the cabin, thus maintaining normal atmospheric conditions.

BUND ROUTED, FLAYS 'GAGGERS'

3,000 Block Entrances to Hall, Break Up Meeting.

ELIZABETH, N. J.—(AP)—Routed by a hostile crowd that jammed a meeting hall and choked all paths leading to it, the German American Bund today denounced such tactics as "gagging of free speech" and set about planning another rally.

Opponents of the Bund, estimated by police at 1,000 in number, seized Eintracht hall where the Bund had advertised a meeting last night, while another 2,000 blocked the entrance. Bund leaders called off the meeting, planned as an organization gathering, after a conference with Police Chief Frank Brennan.

TWO HONORED

Mansfield Students at Kenyon Given Special Recognition.

Two Mansfield students at Kenyon college, Gambier, have been given special recognition for high scholastic achievement for the second semester of the 1937-38 school year, school officials announced today.

The students, Charles F. McKinley, 33 Sherman avenue, and Richard Olin, 135 Brinkerhoff avenue, were named to the college merit rating list for maintaining a scholastic average of 2.0 or better for the entire semester. They will resume their studies at the college when it opens for the 115th year, next Thursday.

SEWER GAS EXPLODES

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A collection of sewer gas was blamed today for a freak explosion in a municipal light standard which hurled a 20-pound steel plate 50 feet into a filling station. A wooden door in the station was smashed.

DEMS TO START FROM SCRATCH

Report of County Committee Shows $854 Spent in Last Year, Treasury Empty.

The Richland County Democratic executive committee will begin the new campaign year "from scratch" so far as finances are concerned.

The committee spent $854 during the past year, all it had in the treasury, according to the financial report filed with the county board of elections by James F. Carrigan, treasurer, last year.

Expense figures for the period from Nov. 12, 1937 to Sept. 3, 1938, showed that E. B. Kallmerten, chairman of the county executive committee for the past two years, received $281, and Carrigan, $200 for "services to the party."

Other smaller expense items included postage, printing and building rental.

The report showed Carrigan made a contribution of $185 to the party's fund, the only contribution listed during the year. A balance of $773 was carried over from the preceding year.

Atty. John C. O'Donnell, newly elected executive committee chairman, and G. A. Baer, central committee head, were out of the city on vacations and could not be reached for a statement on financial plans for this year.

MOVIE 'VETERAN' APPEARS IN CITY

Mickey Scott, Formerly of 'Our Gang' Comedies at Night Club.

Mansfield is the current home of one of the actors of a few years back in the popular "Our Gang" comedies.

He is Mickey Scott, who appeared in "Our Gang" pictures with Spanky McFarland, Farina and all the others for four years—from 1925 to 1929. He's out of the "Gang" now, because he's too old for them—age takes a heavy toll in that youthful company.

Scott, now doing a dance act at the Ringside night club, East Third street, had his last movie role in "Boy of the Streets," a Monogram production.

He has appeared in hotels and night clubs throughout the country.

2,500 JAM NEW PARK THEATER FOR GALA OPENING CEREMONIES

More than 2,500 turned out last night for the gala opening of Mansfield's newest theater, the Park at South Park and Diamond streets.

As early as 6:30 p. m., lines started forming in front of the theater and by 7 p. m. the line extended to South Main street, some crowded in front of the theater, and another line extended down Diamond street.

The new show house was officially opened when Mayor Claude Hunter cut a ribbon stretched across the entrance. Mayor Hunter welcomed the theater to Mansfield's amusements.

T. J. Carroll of Akron, acted as master of ceremonies, and directed the taking of pictures of the opening ceremonies. Carroll also introduced Ralph H. Shaffer, manager of the new Park; A. G. Constant, president of Interstate Theaters, Inc., operators of the new theater, George A. Delis, of Canton, district manager, and others responsible for the erection of the theater.

In order to accomodate the opening crowd, it was necessary to have two showings of the double-bill opening attraction. The 1,300 seats in the theater were filled for both shows.

The lobby was filled with large baskets of flowers, and hundreds of telegrams were received from theater owners, major producers, and other individuals, congratulating the owners on the opening.

Following the first show, a reception and luncheon was held in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel for guests, theater, and city officials. The reception was attended by more than 150.

DUFFY BLASTS

Lashes at Hiring of Counsel Outside of His Office.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy struck today against what he termed the "vicious practice" of state departments in the employment of attorneys not appointed by his office.

Duffy, in a letter to State Auditor Josph T. Ferguson, asked that salary and other claims, pending and future, of the attorney's specified be withheld by the auditor's office.

The attorney general estimated more than 50 persons are employed by state departments as attorneys and attorney examiners without authority of his office.

"This vicious practice has been going on over a number of years," Duffy declared, "and some of these examiners are going into court and signing my name to some of these cases."

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

3 OTHERS HURT WHEN VEHICLES MEET HEAD ON

Cars Traveling in Opposite Directions Collide on Highway Near Urbana.

(By United Press)

URBANA—A head-on automobile collision on state route 68, seven miles south of here on the Champaign-Clark county line, killed five persons and injured three seriously early today.

Those killed were:

Mrs. Beatrice Louden, 21, Urbana, who died of a skull fracture.

Orville Bowers, 22, Huntsville, neck broken.

Robert Harrold, 23, Huntsville, skull fracture.

James Francis Kennedy, 21, Springfield, neck broken.

Jack Strong, 21, Springfield, neck broken.

The injured are Mrs. Aileen Ripley Whittmore, of Urbana, in critical condition in Champaign County hospital here: Carl and Kenneth Zell, brothers, of Huntsville, in serious condition in Springfield City hospital.

Impact Terrific.

Sheriff Jay McKeever of Champaign county and state highway patrolmen who investigated the accident believed that the automobile containing Mrs. Louden, Mrs. Whittmore, Kennedy and Strong was enroute north from Springfield, with Strong driving. The other car containing Bowers, Harrold and the Zell brothers was believed heading south from Huntsville.

Authorities learned that the two cars came together with a terrific crash, which turned one around and upset the other. The three survivors were in such dangerous condition they could not be questioned about the accident.

Coroner Richard M. Brand of Champaign county and Coroner Austin Richards of Clark county investigated the accident jointly but said they could not place the blame for the collision yet. They will announce the result of their investigation later.

A motorist picked up the two women and brought them to the hospital here. Mrs. Louden died on the way.

Ambulances from Urbana and Springfield hurried to the scene of the accident. Three of the men were dead when they arrived.

IDLE BY FORCE

Jobs of 50,000 Men Menaced by Auto Body Strike.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—A strike by United Automobile Workers at the Briggs body factory was slowly paralyzing all Chrysler corporation plants today and jeopardizing the jobs of 50,000 men.

Already, two Chrysler plants were closed, two more were running out of material and were expected to be closed today, and 18,900 men were idle.

The strike interrupted the busiest part of the season for Chrysler.

In addition to the 9,000 Briggs workers, the following were idle:

7,000 from the Plymouth factory here, which was closed yesterday when the supply of bodies was exhausted;

2,000 from the Canadian Chrysler plant at Walkerville, Ont., closed for the same reason;

600 from the Dodge plant here, where operations were curtailed;

300 from Chrysler's Kercheval Ave., plant.

DEATH FLIRTS WITH WORKMAN

Clings To Ledge To Prevent 70-Foot Fall; Rescued.

LEBANON—(INS)—Robert Hurst went back to work on the $500,000 Foster viaduct project today apparently unconcerned over an accident which nearly cost him his life.

Hurst was working on a scaffold, 70 feet above the rocky surface when fellow workmen, forgetting about him, jerked the scaffolding down. Hurst clung with his fingertips to a ledge until workers on top lowered a rope. He used his teeth to hold the rope until he could tie it around him. Then he was hoisted to safety.

FAIR ENOUGH!

What of Ex-Austrians In Tyrol Who Are In a Worse Plight Than Sudetens?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—There are points of confusion in the acts and utterances of Hitler and Mussolini.

Hitler declares a passionate sympathy for the oppressed Sudeten minority in Czechoslovakia. He is particularly indignant because they have been forbidden to sing songs of disloyalty to the nation of which they are unwillingly a part. He is furious because they were forbidden to wear white sox, which were the identification mark of a seditious society organized by his agent, Konrad Henlein.

But in the territory which Italy carved out of Austria at the close of the World war, as her price for betraying the German kaiser, there are still 250,000 Austrians who are captives of a foreign conqueror and whose human rights have been ruthlessly denied.

Mussolini forbade and suppressed the singing of German songs, even innocent folk songs, in the captive Tyrol before Czechoslovakia found it necessary to put down disorderly demonstrations against the government in which the singing was not an exercise of innocent pleasure, but a warlike situation.

Mussolini, literally, even forbade the captured Austrians in his conquered territory to yodel and they also were forbidden to speak their native language. Their children were compelled to study the Italian language, signs in the native language of the country were removed from the territory and replaced by signs in Italian. Only three years ago, captive Austrians of the race which Hitler described as "not created by God to be victimized by a foreign power as a result of the Versailles reconstruction of states," were literally, physically, dragged off from their homes, impressed into the army of "a foreign power," and sent to Abyssinia.

* * *

It would appear that this was a fairly close approach to victimization by a foreign power of captives as truly German as the Sudetens of Czechoslovakia.

Czechoslovakia has fought no foreign wars and far from attempting to victimize the Sudetens in any manner, even remotely approaching the Italian brutality toward the captured Tyroleans, has preferred to excuse the Sudeten Germans from service in her armies because the treacherous movements which Hitler promoted among them made them untrustworthy.

* * *

Mussolini also forbade his captive Austrians to wear white socks, as a badge of rebellion, and stamped out efforts to adopt other marks of identification on the hats, coat-lapels and neckties. He has been doing this for 15 years.

For many years after the war, the Sudetens enjoyed the benefits of orderly government in Czechoslovakia, while Germany was shaken by recurrent disturbances and throughout that time the Sudetens were glad to be protected from conditions in Germany. At no time since the end of the war have the captives in Italy enjoyed similar benefits. The Sudetens were treated as citizens. Mussolini's Austrians were treated as captives.

Lately, as a matter of policy, they are less firmly opposed but they are still denied rights which the Sudetens have never lacked. They, too, are and always have been, forbidden to sing the Horst Wessel song and Deutschland Uber Alles and, unlike the Sudetens, at this moment, they are required to conduct their affairs in a language foreign to them.

The Sudetens never were any more German than Mussolini's quarter of a million Tyrolean captives. They were subjects of Austria-Hungary before the war and it was the same "Versailles reconstruction of states" which placed the Tyroleans within the new boundaries of Italy. If Sudetens have been killed in disorders provoked by Hitler through Henlein, many more of those whom Hitler embraces as blood brothers were shot by Mussolini Blackshirts, police and border patrols, as they attempted to affect personal anschluss by going over the hill on foot, especially at the time when Italy was attempting to gather up the more troublesome individuals for shipment to a war in Ethiopia, more than 3,000 miles away. Others perished of exposure and accident while in flight.

* * *

Mussolini's word on the Sudeten crisis is that Czechoslovakia must give the Sudeten territory to Germany. By the same principle, Mussolini must give back to Hitler, as the executor of the deceased state of Austria, the territory which he received and the 250,000 Austrians who are now being "victimized by a foreign power as a result of the Versailles reconstruction of states." And if he doesn't give them back, Hitler must rescue them. In fact, he should rescue them first.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Frank Harling—the chubby fellow with the blue beret glued to his head for neuralgia's sake—is one musician who gives credit where credit is due.

It wasn't his music that started his career, he insists, but the fact that an exuberant foreign maestro kissed him smack on both cheeks after a performance. By the time the story got around it was a hundred foreign maestros.

Harling is writing music again for New York Producer Arthur Hopkins, and that's a story. The play is "Heritage," and Hopkins wants the musical score—for a legitimate play!—recorded on sound track!

But the story isn't that. It all began long before Harling had ever met Hopkins, or Hopkins had ever heard of Harling. The musician had been conducting, arranging and doing other musical chores for Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske for seven years when he decided he wanted to compose a grand opera. He needed a libretto.

Said Mrs. Fiske: "I wrote a one-act play that Bertha Kalisch has been playing in vaudeville for three years. It ought to be just the thing."

The Italian composer Puccini, however, had an option on the operatic rights. When Puccini did Belasco's "Girl of the Golden West" instead and didn't exercise the option, Harling took it over. Mrs. Fiske and her husband, Harrison Gray Fiske, did the libretto.

* * *

The Metropolitan rejected the opera, but the Chicago Civic took it on. Rosa Raisa starred, and Christmas saw the opening of "A Light From St. Agnes," Harling conducting—"and flat broke, too," he says.

After the opening he was famous, but still broke. The opera was the first to include jazz—but it didn't make money.

"And I'm sitting in Boston, famous but broke, when I get a call from Arthur Hopkins' representative," he recalls. "So I go to Hopkins in New York—and to my amazement I'm teamed with the great Laurence Stallings to write 'Deep River.' To my greater amazement I leave the office with a $1,500 advance."

After the success of "Deep River" in 1927 Harling's trail to Hollywood was clear. He's been scoring, with few intermissions, ever since. It's his music you'll be hearing in "Men With Wings."

Nine years ago Paramount had the play, "Come Out of the Kitchen," and wanted to film it as a musical. Harling was assigned to the score, Wesley Ruggles directing. It was all done and one day Ruggles said, "Well, I'm thinking we've got a turkey on our hands."

That was Harling's cue. "I've got a hot tune," he said.

* * *

Ruggles heard it. At once they began building a new set—a Mississippi swamp three blocks long. But they still didn't have any lyrics. They wanted something a whole chorus of Negro slaves could sing in that three-block swamp.

They staged the number to Sam Coslow's lyrics—and the picture, called "Honey," was saved.

But that song today, nine years later, is a hit. It's billed as coming from the Bing Crosby picture of the same title, directed by the same Ruggles. Ruggles liked the song as a title, but except in the overture, it isn't heard in "Sing You Sinners" at all.

STUDY CLUB CONDUCTS DINNER-BRIDGE PARTY

Joan of Arc Group Announces Plans for Coming Year at First Function Held at Schwarz Tavern Last Night.

A PROGRAM SCHEDULE combining the spring colors of deep orchid and pale pink was distributed last night at the first meeting of the Joan of Arc Study club which was held at Schwarz's Tavern on the Lexington avenue road. The affair was a dinner-bridge party.

Topics assigned for the coming year include a variety of subjects. Last night Mrs. Verba Kanary spoke on "Nature's Own Gardens."

Some of the other announced discussions will be on Florence Nightingale, patch work quilts, the life of Helen Keller, travel, the supreme court, dictatorships, and American history.

Those who will present papers on these various subjects are Mrs. G. C. Wehinger, Mrs. Clarence Beelman, Mrs. D. L. Maxwell, Mrs. Harry Kurrich, Miss Marie Hecht, Mrs. Frank Loykovich, Mrs. A. E. Weakland, Miss Marie Kalbfleisch and Mrs. J. H. Seibert.

Prizes were awarded last night to Miss Hecht, Mrs. Loykovich, Mrs. Beelman, Mrs. Mary Straub, a guest, who was also presented with a bridge prize.

The year's program was arranged by Mrs. Kanary, Mrs. Beelman and Mrs. Wehinger, members of the program committee. Officers of the club this year are Mrs. Kurrich, Mrs. Kanary, Mrs. Seibert and Miss Mary Rizzo.

The next meeting will be Oct. 20 at the home of Mrs. Beelman.

Elect 2 Officers Of West Fifth Club

At the meeting of the West Fifth street Mothers' club yesterday, Mrs. William Smith was elected president to fill the post left vacant by Mrs. O. M. Adams when she left the city several months ago. Mrs. A. J. Bair was named to the vice-presidency.

Miss Nona Marie Wilson spoke on parent education and Supt. W L. Miller discussed the bond issue which will be voted on Sept. 20. It was decided to have a membership drive contest, and Mrs. Bair and Mrs. Raymond Bright were given captainships of the teams.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Snyder, Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Bair and Mrs. Robert Schiffler. The next meeting will be Oct. 13.

LENA PHILLIPS WILL BE OCTOBER SPEAKER

Business Women to Bring International President to Mansfield for Public Relations Dinner at Hotel.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the plans for the public relations dinner and guest night which will be held Oct. 11 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel was made recently when the Business and Professional Women held their September meeting at the same place. At this time year books were distributed to the members.

Other special events being planned include a Christmas guest program, a Sunday breakfast party in February and a musical tea sponsored by the Glee club the same month, and a birthday dinner in March.

Lena Madesin Phillips, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women and associate editor of the Pictorial Review, will be the speaker for the October session.

There were 50 members of the organization present Wednesday night to hear Gretchen Reighard, Mansfield's professional flyer and parachute jumper, speak on her experiences and her work. Following Miss Reighard's talk, several members of the club gave travel talks of their summer vacations. Those participating were Miss Nina Pollock, president, Miss Pearl Danback, Miss Lois MacKellar and Miss Julia BeVier.

Games followed the program, and Miss Mary Kolb and Mrs. Margaret Sellick were the winners.

Rabbi Latz Sees Small Chance For Jews In Europe At Present

Speaking on "The Plight of the Jew Today," Rabbi Charles B Latz, Canton, addressed an audience of church workers and civic club members at a meeting last night in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian church. The service was conducted by Circle Five of the Women's guild of the church.

Rabbi Latz explained the salvation of the Jew lies in the fact that the race is scattered. There are between 16,000,000 and 17,000,000 Jews in the world with the largest numbers being in the United States, Russia and Poland.

"The Polish Jewish situation is the worst because of the backwardness of the country," he stated.

"Jewish history," the speaker continued, "is a laboratory of social adjustment. Today the Jew is the scapegoat of the world."

The Jewish speaker offered little hope for the Jew of Europe today. Fearing a sudden move on the part of Hitler into the Sudeten regions, Rabbi Latz indicated that the Jew will be forced from that area as he was previously from Germany and Austria. The Jews are being starved to death because all their means of livelihood have been confiscated, he explained.

Pointing out the differences in democracy and the totalitarian state, the speaker laid the present chaotic condition of the world at the door of the Versailles treaty.

Rev. D N. Roller presided at the meeting and musical selections were given by Mrs. E. D. Gibson and Mrs Mary Anglin.

Say Farewell With Gifts Of Food

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

SOME NATIVE peoples rub noses as a farewell. We give gifts and parties as send-off gestures. And the food gesture is one of the nicest and most practical. It is nice to be able to present a surprise box of food to speed the parting guest on a day-long trip!

For a bon voyage box it is a good idea to choose a metal box with a tight-fitting lid, and don't forget waxed and transparent paper for packing. Stuffed dates are perfect for child or adult; they are a fruit and a confection all in one. Stuff them with nuts or fondant and roll them in sugar. Nuts, such as Brazil nuts or almonds, are nice, and if there is to be a party given in cabin aboard ship, then it is a nice gesture to send along a box of toasted nuts that can be served.

Candy made at home is always a nice gesture, so here is a good recipe. Brazilian toffee requires two cups sugar, one and one-half cups each dark corn syrup and thin cream, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, one and one-half teaspoons vanilla, one and one-half cups chopped Brazil nuts. Put sugar, syrup, cream and salt into a heavy saucepan and stir till sugar is dissolved. Cook to 244 F. Stir mixture thoroughly to prevent burning. Add butter and cook to lightly brittle stage or 252 F. Remove from heat; add vanilla and nuts. Pour onto greased slab and mark into squares while still warm.

Right here is as good a spot as any to give a recipe for a splendid party lunch, nice to speed the parting guest or welcome home the vacationist. Ingredients include one-half cup sugar syrup, six stalks fresh mint, two tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup canned grapefruit juice, one cup ice water and two cups gingerale. To make the sugar syrup, put sugar and water in saucepan and stir until sugar is dissolved. Remove tips from mint and crush stalks in one-half cup of the hot sugar syrup, let stand half an hour then strain. Add fruit juices and water. Add gingerale just before serving.

Coffee Imperial.

Coffee imperial is another delicious drink, exotic and different. Ingredients include four two-inch sticks of cinnamon, six cups hot, freshly-brewed strong coffee, one-third cup sugar, one cup whipping cream and chopped ice. Add the cinnamon to the hot coffee and allow to stand for about an hour. Remove the cinnamon, add the sugar (add more if desired) and one-half cup of the cream, then chill. Pour the mixture into six tall glasses and fill with chipped ice. Whip the remaining cream and add a little sugar, also, if desired, some almond flavoring. Place a spoon of cream in each serving. Incidentally, a nice gift, especially for the person who is off to far lands, is a nice big container of his or her favorite brand of coffee.

To give pickled beets a new and different flavor add a few pickled onions chopped fine.

Petticoat Flounce Fashion of Moment For Lamp Shades

Flounces made of taffeta brighten this lamp shade and make it chic.

By ELISABETH M. BLONDEL

(Prepared by McCall's Magazine for Mansfield News-Journal)

Perhaps it's the influence of the new femininity in women's styles, for now lampshades simply must have the new "petticoat flounce." And, made the right way (which is not hard), it is just as becoming in the living room as it is in the boudoir.

For the living room with Chippendale, Sheraton, Georgian or Colonial furniture, the petticoat shade is made entirely of fine silk taffeta, with a narrow fringed edge of the same fabric.

And for the boudoir, a taffeta shade with a petticoat of Alencon lace or point d'esprit is particularly chic. Interesting, too, are the organdy petticoats over silk shades, snapped to the shade so that they can be easily removed for washing.

The petticoats are cut on the straight of the material. To make the silk petticoat illustrated, with self fringe, allow 2½ inches more than the height of the shade for the top fold and fringe. The length of the silk should measure 1½ times the length of the bottom rim. For a large shade, two straight pieces are satisfactory.

To get an absolutely straight fringe, pull a thread of the silk and cut closely. Then pull threads the full width of the silk until the fringe is about ¾ inch long. Join the sides on the sewing machine with a French seam.

Adjust Shirring.

Fold the top down one inch and run a double row of machine shirring on the bottom of the fold. Make a second row of double shirring 1 inch below this and sew the second seam with a French seam. Be careful not to stitch over any of the shirring threads.

Pull threads to shirr one half of the petticoat, then pin the petticoat seams over the side seams of shade, and adjust the shirring. Now pull the threads tightly the rest of the way. Even the shirrings all around and pin narrow velvet ribbon over the stitches. Then sew with invisible slip stitch.

For a point d'esprit petticoat, use a tiny ribon at the edge for binding. An organdy petticoat may be finished with a picot edge.

—Advice— Best Friend Betrays Confidence

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

The most difficult situation in which a happily married woman can find herself occurs when she discovers that her husband has been making love to another woman. The stab is all the more cruel when she becomes aware that the other woman is a loved friend, in whom she has had the fullest confidence. Here's the situation:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"When I discovered that my husband and my best friend had been making love to each other, my little world crashed. How serious it is, I don't know yet. My friend is very unhappy over her own marital difficulties, and she welcomes the attention of any man who makes her forget her own troubles.

"When I invited her to stay with us at our beach cottage, I had no idea that she would ever betray me. But I've seen with my own eyes and heard with my own ears. I just don't know what steps to take next.

"Luckily, this woman's visit came to an end Monday morning. The love-making I discovered on Sunday night, when she'd gone to my husband to ask for advice about her own affairs. I managed to get through the goodbyes without a scene, and I'm sure that neither my husband nor this woman suspect I know about their disloyalty.

"What shall I do? Make my husband wildly jealous? I could do that. Two of his friends do not find me unattractive. Shall I leave him; demand a separation or a divorce? Shall I tell him I know the fault was not his, but my friend's? Or shall I go on in the even tenor of my way and pretend I know nothing?

"Shall I stage scenes and make my husband as unhappy as he has made me? Besides myself, there are two children to be considered. Their father is devoted to them.

"SORROW."

We're all creatures of primitive impulse. The first impulse of any woman, who finds herself in the position of this wife, is to stab back, make the man and the woman pay. The old code, "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," seems common justice to her.

But on second thought, is the primitive way the best? It's pretty cold comfort to wreck her home and leave her children to the mercy of chance. These luxuries of home-wrecking and staging scenes are not for women who are unable to provide new homes for their children by talent, business experience or relatives willing to receive them.

Philandering husbands quickly forget the old home and the old family in the new home and the new family. Women with children can seldom afford dramatics; likewise, the ancient recipe of making a philandering husband jealous is not to be advised, because children should have at least one parent worthy of good, old-fashioned respect. It's an unusual man who is willing to marry a divorced woman with two children, even if he does find her attractive.

When a woman finds herself in the plight of this correspondent, she would do well to ask herself how seriously the man meant his love-making. The grief-stricken woman who comes for sympathy and advice is very likely to encourage a little romantic scene. And if this lovemaking was not serious, why make a capital offense of it, especially when the welfare of children is involved.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

THERE WAS so much concentrated anger in Phillip Veritzen's voice as he asked Katherine if she did not realize a queen's life was at stake, that I felt myself shiver, although I knew that there was nothing he could do about his bafflement at the hands of the calm-eyed, perfectly-poised nurse.

"If a life were at stake," Katherine said calmly, "I should have sent for a physician at once. But I have had experience enough to know that Queen Olga is suffering simply from shock and exhaustion. She is extremely weak, but her heart is functioning well, and there is no danger as long as she is kept perfectly quiet. But she is on the verge of a nervous collapse. Any undue excitement may push her over the edge. Even the excitement of thinking that we considered her ill enough to summon a physician might give just the impetus to cause the collapse. Therefore, I must be adamant against any visitors or messages."

She was doing a splendid job, I told myself, and I resolved to tease her later about the magnificent tissue of falsehoods she had spun. But Phillip Vertizen was also "adamant", as his next sentence proved.

"I am sorry to be insistent," he said, "but, forgive me, I cannot accept a nurse's diagnosis of the queen's condition. As her protector, I must insist upon calling in the best medical authority I can secure."

Then Lillian went into action, swiftly, thoroughly, crushingly.

Just a Guest.

"Don't throw your weight around so, Phil," she advised him coolly. "You aren't down at the headquarters of the great Veritzen organization, you know, but in a private house as a guest. Queen Olga temporarily has left your protection for that of the chief. She is being sheltered by his family. She put full faith in the message I delivered to her from the chief, and has put herself absolutely under the authority of the Grahams and the Underwoods, acting as his agents. I happen to know that unless it is absolutely necessary, the chief would not want anyone, even a physician, to come into the house while this menace continues."

She took a long breath, which she needed, and swept on.

"If you'll admit it, Phil, you know very well that Katherine is competent to judge a case of nervous exhaustion and collapse. You know her records as a nurse, before the war, during it in France, and since. But whether you admit it or not, I'm very much afraid you'll have to abide by her decision. Sorry to be churlish, by dearest laddie, but if you send a physician here, he'll be turned away, and you wouldn't like that any more than you'd relish the knowledge that you probably had added to the queen's jeopardy by meddling."

No Chance for Retort.

I wondered that Philip Veritzen did not actually burst, he had so visibly swelled with baffled anger during Lillian's diatribe. But he did not actually burst, he had no explosion. Instead, she crossed swiftly to him, and reaching up, took him by the coat lapels and shook him slightly, probably the one person in the world who could use him thus cavalierly.

"Look here, Old Dear!" she said. "You know you can't get mad by me—especially for telling you the truth for the good of your soul. It simply isn't done. Come on, Darling! Climb down from your high horse, and come play nice parlor games with Lillian. You'll have a stroke if you keep this high-hat mad business up. Come on now! Give your old palsy-walsy a nice kiss on the forehead, and say you forgive her."

I never have seen so ridiculous a mixture of "conflicting emotions," as the old novelists used to term them, as fitted across Philip Veritzen's face as Lillian staged her half farcical, half earnest appeal. Chagrin, rage, indulgence, yielding, succeeded each other, until finally, with a sudden malicious gleam in his eyes, he swept her into his arms with an energy which patently astounded her, and gave her a resounding kiss which was distinctly not "upon the forehead."

"There, you devil," he said. "Perhaps that will teach you manners. I accept your ultimatum, but—surely the Princess Olina has not also collapsed. When can I see her?"

Today's Fashion

Lovely White Evening Frock.

By VERA WINSTON

THERE MAY be a demand for this or that color during the season, but white is smartest for summer, especially with a tanned skin. Here is an exquisite evening frock in heavy white sheer. The draped bodice is one with the draped sleeves, the raglan shoulder having shirred detail. It has the same detail in back. A wide, draped girdle fits up high under the bust, fastening in the middle of the front where two rows of shirring hold the gathers. The skirt is gracefully flared, falling in soft folds around the figure. It's good for both the young and the mature figure because of its soft detail and perfect cut.

Variations On Coiffures For Fall

By MME. QUI VIVE

Spring and autumn brings changes in clothes; Paris makes her pretty offerings, the dear-hearts select what they like. It is at these seasons that coiffures go through transition periods. It may be the old hairdo with a variation or it may be something strange and wild that tops the head of women. Whatever it is, it makes more pleasing the reflection in the mirror. Even the prettiest girl tires of the same old mop arrangement. If she can make it over one way or another she's happy.

Rolls and puffs are still with us. Flying ringlets have been caught and put under control, appearing as flat curlycues. There is more softness of effect than we have had for the last few years. Undulations appear in some creations of the stylists but they aren't rigid finger waves guaranteed to wear from one shampoo to the next. They're fluid, shadowy lines that can't be spotted from the natural undulations.

Florence Hansen, writing in Modern Beauty Shop, a magazine devoted to the interests of the hair dressing profession, has written an article on coiffure adaptations, telling what styles are suitable for certain faces. She has interviewed famous stylists, so her reports are authoritative.

* * *

Miss Hansen considers the long, thin face, which she says, should never carry the center parting because it makes the face look longer and thinner. She suggests a swept back coiffure with long-stemmed ringlets above the forehead—they are soft, not lifted or placed flat to the head—and fluffy curls at the sides, drawn slightly over the ears. Fullness at the sides gives the illusion of width. This coiffure has the advantage of revealing the forward hair line creating that nice newly scrubbed look which is so necessary these days.

At the rear, placed fairly low, are soft rolls to make the neck look shorter. The upper coiffure is not for the girl whose neck is elongated.

* * *

The girl with the narrow forehead will do well by herself if she arranged three stand up rolls in front, sports a brushed down finger wave at the sides, soft curls at the rear and back of the ears. This is one of those high-low effects, combining the practical old style with the new. It is chic and mannerly.

For the round-faced girl who wears glasses is suggested the pompadour style with large flat curls. At the sides the hair is swept back in smooth bands. No ripples for the moon-faced ducky. At the rear is a lifted roll to make the neck appear long and slender.

If you are seeking a new arrangement for your hirsute mop, think deeply on the subject of features and facial contour. Regard your portrait, front, sides and back.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, September 17.

CONFLICTING CONDITIONS are noted in this day's astral interpretations, with promise of fulfilled ambitions and attainment of much personal prestige and gratification. Nevertheless, there is menace of conflict or friction with superiors or those in authority. A disagreeable personal matter may be at issue, but generally there is sign of success financially, particularly through the speculative channels.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of contradictory situations. There may be some definite progress, with fulfilled personal desires, but, at the same time, there may be inharmony with employers, superiors or those in power. Be cautious as to petty personal conflicts. Romance calls for discretion.

A child born on this day may be capable and ambitious, with fine aspirations in a social, cultural or philanthropical line, and yet it may run counter to superiors and those in authority, to its detriment. Its romantic trends may likewise lead into difficulties.

Before painting enameled woodwork if you will wash it with an ammonia solution (1 tablespoon to a pint of water) and wipe off with clear water it will cover better and take only one coat of paint.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

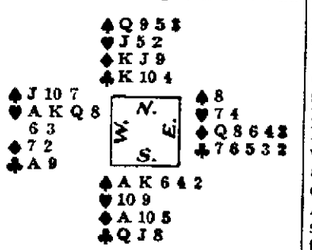
"The Authority on Authorities"

TRUMP HIS ACE

Trumping your partner's ace is such an old joke that many fair players would never think of doing it. Once in a blue moon, though, a hand comes along which demands that very play. If you make it and thereby set the contract, you have something to crow about.



(Dealer. South. Neither side vulnerable.)

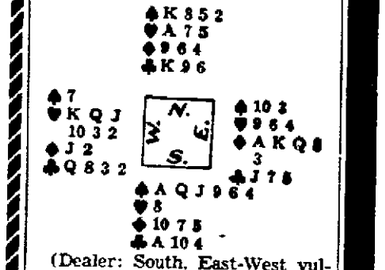
South bid 1-Spade on this deal. West 2-Hearts, North 2-Spades, South 3-Spades and North 4-Spades.

When West led the heart K, East played the 7 and when the Q was cashed, East dropped the 4. This signal by East could only mean that he held at least one trump and was in a position to ruff the next round.

Because West continued with the heart A, instead of leading a small one, as East had expected, the latter refused to trump the trick. The play of the spade 8 by East would have forced one of South's high honors and set up a trump trick for West.

As East failed to trump the heart trick, South was able to do so with his spade 2. After drawing trumps, he correctly finessed the diamond 10 to West. He therefore lost only two hearts and the club A.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After the lead of the heart K, what is South's best play to make 4-Spades?
